RACE OF 350,000, SLAVES FOR 550 YEARS, FREED BY CHINA

"Lazy Men" Tribe, Descendants of Mongol Conquerors of Fourteenth Century, Now Given Full Citizenship.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
PEKING, July 16.—After being held in bondage for 550 years, the descendants of the Mongols who conquered China in the fourteenth century and who have been kept in a state of virtual slavery ever since in Chekiang Province, south of Shanghai, have been freed by formal edict of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.
From the year 960 to 1127 the Sung dynasty ruled China for undisturbed. Then, at the time of the Crusades in Europe, when Russia also was being overrun by Mongol tribes, the Mongols descended from the North and West upon China.
After a long period of civil war and chaos the Mongols founded the Yuan dynasty, with Peking as their capital, in the year 1280. This dynasty lasted less than a century, being superseded in 1368 by the Ming dynasty, which in turn was overthrown by the Manchus in 1644, the latter holding the throne until the republic was founded in 1911.
Made Slaves by Edict.
When the Mongol dynasty collapsed in 1368 and the Imperial Yuan family retreated northwestward to Urgan, about 3000 Mongol garrison troops in Chekiang Province were cut off. An Imperial edict issued by the first Ming Emperor made these Mongols all slaves and, though they have not been subject to personal sale for some hundreds of years, they have been harshly oppressed for five and a half centuries.
For 500 years these marooned Mongols have been officially listed as an "inferior race." They have been debased from taking part in civil service examinations and have not been permitted to hold public office.
So strong has been the prejudice against them that not a single case of intermarriage with a Chinese has been recorded. In occupations they have been limited to chair bearers, rickshaw pullers, fishermen, barbers and shoemakers.
Today these Mongols number about 20,000 at Ning-Po, where they are nicknamed "lazy men." 200,000 live at Chu-Chow and Wen-Chow, where they are called "cheap men," and others distributed throughout the province number 130,000 more and are known as "the nine degenerate families."
Under the new mandate all traces and professions are thrown open to these Mongols; their children may be educated with Chinese children (when and if the war lords release any revenue for educational purposes), and the ban against intermarriage is officially abolished.

The blaze was confined to No. 1 fire room close to oil tanks and the magazine containing powder and shells. In order to prevent a possible explosion the magazine was flooded.

"KING" PURNELL ADMITS HE REWED WITHOUT DIVORCE

His Attorney Declares Divorce Unnecessary in Kentucky for Persons Under 18.

COLONY HEAD DENIES MISTREATING GIRLS

Carried to Court, He Testifies Lying on Cot, in State's Suit to Dissolve House of David.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 12.—"King" Benjamin Purnell, testifying for himself in the State's dissolution suit against the House of David, today admitted on cross-examination by Assistant Attorney-General George E. Nichols that he never had obtained a legal divorce from his first wife.
"Eighteen or 19 attorneys told me I didn't need one. I was only an ignorant boy then," he said.
It has been the contention of the State that Purnell was a bigamist. His wife, "Queen" Mary, had insisted previously that Purnell had obtained a divorce and that she was legally married to Purnell.
Declares Divorce Unnecessary.
When Purnell admitted he had not been divorced from his first wife, his attorney, William J. Barnard, interjected the statement that a divorce was not necessary in Kentucky if a couple separated before they were 18 years of age.
Purnell testified that a petition for divorce was filed "long before he married his present wife, but he did not know what he was doing." His attorney advised him a divorce was unnecessary.
Purnell told his cross-examiner that he married Angelina Brown in Greenup County, Kentucky, when he was 16 years old.
He described what he termed the "lighting of the graph." He explained there was a spirit of truth taking hold of him as he happened, he said, while he was a pillar of the Michael Mills colony, and led him to break away from Mills' faith and set himself up as a prophet.
At the time Mills was serving a jail sentence on charges of abusing girl members of his colony.
Purnell said he broke away from Mills' faith because he never had offered his wife $1,000,000.
"I am weary of it all," he said, "and have decided to go back to Los Angeles and fight for my name and fortune. I do not care for the money, but I want my name cleared so my babies will be proud of it."
"I am ready to go into court and face all the charges my wife has brought against me. There I shall let the public decide my fate for I am sure I shall be vindicated. I can easily dispense the charges." Chaplin appeared tanned and said he had regained his strength.

CHAPLIN ON WAY WEST TO FIGHT WIFE'S SUIT

Says All Offers of Compromise Will Be Withdrawn by His Attorneys.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Charles Chaplin today was en route to Los Angeles from New York, prepared for a "fight to the finish for the sake of my name and the future of my two babies" in the divorce suit brought by his young wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.
The screen comedian stopped here between trains last night. He said he had definitely instructed his attorneys to withdraw all offers of a settlement out of court and arrange for the court fight set for Aug. 22. Chaplin said he had made many offers to settle the suit, but ridiculed reports that he had offered his wife $1,000,000.
"I am weary of it all," he said, "and have decided to go back to Los Angeles and fight for my name and fortune. I do not care for the money, but I want my name cleared so my babies will be proud of it."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Trading in the stock market today was in large volume, following a wide open break in a long list of specialty shares which have been supported by pools.
Large blocks of shares were offered for sale, due to inability or unwillingness to meet calls for additional margin; and breaks of 4 points or more were numerous in such leaders as General Motors, Atchafalaya, Jersey Central and General Electric. Air Reduction was forced down 2 points, while Commercial Solvents "B" and Dupont dropped 17 and 15, respectively.
Later there was a partial recovery led by high grade industrials. Acute weakness developed in the late trading in Southwestern rails, several of which dropped 4 to 6 points. The ticker tape was 26 minutes late in recording the final quotations. Total sales included more than 2,500,000 shares.
A. L. Fuller & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, were suspended today for inability to meet their obligations.
The firm is reported to have been identified with the pool in Manhattan Electric Supply, opened a point higher today at 61, advanced to 64 1/2 and then broke to 58 on the Fuller announcement from the rostrum of the Exchange.
This was the first stock exchange failure since July 3, 1925.

10,000-FOOT PEAK SLOWLY TUMBLING INTO WYOMING LAKE

Noise of Falling Rocks Can Be Heard 14 Miles Away.

By the Associated Press.
ROCK SPRING, Wyo., Aug. 12.—Slowly crumbling in tremendous rock slides, a large mountain 110 miles north of here has stirred tourists with its phenomenal movements.
Millions of tons of earth and boulders have tumbled into a canyon. Nearby, Fremont Lake, with huge deposits of rocks in its bed from the slides, has overflowed, and another lake is being formed. The main slide is reported to be half a mile wide.
George Reddick, Omaha capitalist, owner of a summer home near Fremont Lake, said today he observed 12 distinct movements in a day. The noise of the rock tumbling 1000 feet down the mountain side was distinctly audible to L. W. Sargent, at Daniel, Wyo., 14 miles away. The mountain rises approximately 10,000 feet above sea.

HAWAII RACE ENTRANT KILLED ON TEST FLIGHT WITH PLANE

Two-Motored "Angel of Los Angeles" Crashes Near Field With Arthur W. Rogers.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Arthur W. Rogers of Long Beach, taking his Dole Pacific flight plane, "Angel of Los Angeles," into the air for the first time today, was killed when the craft crashed to the ground two miles from the Eastern Air Express field at Montebello, where he took off.
Rogers, whose plane was entered in the $35,000 race to Hawaii by Leland A. Bryant, Los Angeles architect, formerly was with the British navy air service. The ship was a full cantilever monoplane, built by the Bryant Aircraft Syndicate of Los Angeles. It was powered with two 220-horsepower motors, set tandem above the cockpit. The wing area was 340 square feet.
The plane was carrying two passengers, Rogers and a mechanic.

Midnight Speeders Leave Wake of Explosions and Frightened Householders; Two Men Held.

By the Associated Press.
DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Aug. 12.—Two midnight joyriders sped through the Buckingham mountain region tossing out lighted sticks of dynamite as they sped. The car, a 1926 Buick, was followed by a 14-stick dynamite car. The wing area was 340 square feet.
The first explosion wrecked the home of John Scarborough, but no one was injured. The second explosion wrecked a 15-foot hole in the ground near the Booker T. Washington Country Club, shattered windows, broke all the windows at the nearby home of Vincent Wilson and hurled Wilson's 14-year-old daughter from bed.
Other blasts occurred near a Negro church on top of Buckingham mountain and at the Frank Heller farm.

OUT AFTER SEEKING PAROLES FOR 3 IN JACK DANIEL CASE

J. B. Marshall, Special U. S. Attorney, "Permitted to Resign" When He Sought Promotion.

WROTE IN BEHALF OF TONY FOLEY

Sought Release of Landon and Lucking Also — Loan From Remus' Associate Also Inquired Into.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—John B. Marshall, a special attorney in the prohibition unit, recently came up for promotion as legal adviser to an Eastern prohibition administrator, but instead of being promoted was allowed to resign.

This action followed a hearing in connection with letters he had written urging the parole of certain convicted defendants whom he had prosecuted. In the Jack Daniel distillery conspiracy case at Indianapolis in December, 1924, when 13 of 17 defendants, most of them St. Louisans, were convicted and sentenced to jail or the penitentiary.

Prohibition officials here are reticent concerning details of the hearing at which Marshall was questioned. But Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Otis Dahl admitted Marshall had applied for promotion, but was "permitted to resign" instead. No specific charges had been made against Marshall, Otis Dahl added.

Called Before Investigators.
It was learned from other authentic sources that Marshall was called before a board composed of investigators of the prohibition unit, intelligence units when he applied for promotion, and that they questioned him concerning letters he had written on behalf of two Cincinnati defendants, and Tony Foley, St. Louis County gambler.

Marshall had ranked high in the estimation of the legal department of the prohibition unit, and for that reason was assigned as a Special Assistant United States Attorney-General to prosecute the Jack Daniel conspiracy case, which up to that time was one of the biggest whisky conspiracies with which the Government had had to deal.

At about the same time Marshall was seriously considered for appointment as United States District Attorney for Kansas.

Wrote Urging Paroles.
After the Jack Daniel group had been sent to Leavenworth penitentiary, Marshall almost immediately wrote a letter to the Leavenworth parole board expressing doubt of the guilt of George B. Landon and William Lucking, millionaire Cincinnati distillers, and recommending parole for them.

In this letter, dated at the Palmer House, Chicago, Jan. 19, 1925, Marshall wrote that he had requested United States District Attorney Ward of Indianapolis, to go before Judge Baltzell with him during the trial of the case, and that the (Marshall) expressed the belief to the judge that the testimony against Landon and Lucking was not sufficient to justify the submittal to the jury of the case against them.

Marshall said further in his letter that there were many facts and circumstances which came to his attention during investigation of the conspiracy and trial of the case which could not properly be offered in evidence by the Government and which convinced him Landon and Lucking were not guilty.

"In view of my belief," he wrote in conclusion, "I feel that it is my duty to recommend to your honorable body that parole be granted to the said defendants at the earliest date upon which they may consistently be done under the regulations governing the administration of such matters."

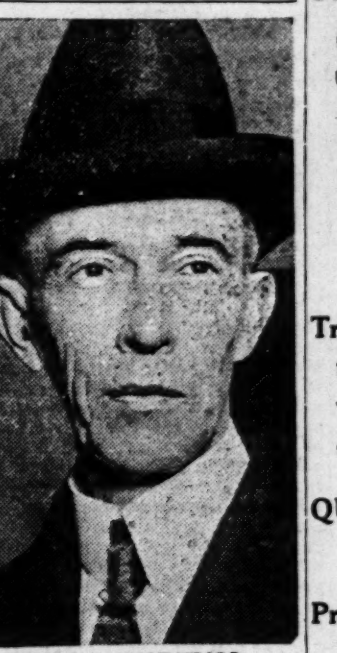

Pleaded for Tony Foley.
Later on Marshall wrote a letter from Seattle, Wash., recommending clemency for Foley, also convicted in the conspiracy. Neither Foley nor Landon and Lucking came up for parole, because they were released from prison before becoming eligible, when the Circuit Court of Appeals granted their petitions for new trial.

Upon being questioned concerning his writing of these letters, Marshall insisted he was moved only by a sense of justice to these men.

Another thing about which he was questioned was a loan of several hundred dollars made to him by George Connors of Cincinnati, business associate of George Rogers.

ONE MAN SEIZES LIQUOR SHIP AFTER IT ESCAPES POLICE

With Cargo of 7000 Cases Freighter Sinks Barge, Then Goes Aground in New York Harbor.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The freighter Ansonia, formerly a Great Lakes steamer, escaped from Staten Island police today only to run on a sandbar in the harbor and be captured by one coast guardman with its cargo of 7000 cases of liquor, said to be valued at $600,000.

After a wild dash from a deserted wharf, where the police captured 34 men with seven trucks and three automobiles, apparently about to unload the cargo, the steamer sailed in halves a barge in the Kill von Kull, and was about to escape when it came to rest on the bar, where it was captured.

The capture brought the total of liquor seized in the harbor in 24 hours up to nearly a million dollars' worth. The British trawler Sebastopol was seized yesterday with a cargo valued at $300,000 and 17 men. Arrests on the Ansonia numbered 23, bringing the total for 24 hours up to 74.

The 34 men arrested at the wharf were arraigned in Magistrate's Court on charges of trespassing, pleaded "not guilty" and were released on $100 bail each.

The complaint was made by the owners of the wharf. Counsel for the men said they had gone there with the understanding that the property had been leased for the landing of some machinery. He pointed out that no liquor was landed.

Crowd Flees From Police.
Patrolman Dauria early today saw a single-stack steamer tied up at an abandoned dock at Arlington with about 100 men gathered around a fleet of waiting trucks apparently preparing to unload the steamer's cargo. The patrolman telephoned for reinforcements. When they arrived the officers called on the crowd to surrender. There was a wild scramble. Thirty-four men, however, were arrested.

While police were busy taking the prisoners the crew of the steamer, which had not yet begun to unload, cut loose from the dock and started full speed through the waters of the Kill von Kull. The helmsman ran his boat into two anchored sand barges, cutting one of them in two and causing two men on board to be thrown into the water.

The alleged liquor runner careened on through the darkness until it ran its prow high and dry on a sand bar. After rescuing the two men thrown into the water police notified the Coast Guard and a cutter was sent which pulled the steamer from the sand bar and took it and its crew to anchorage.

One Man Captures Crew.
The capture of the Ansonia and the 23 persons aboard was the work of a one coast guardman, George A. Lomax, in charge of the patrol boat, who boarded the ship. He detected the odor of liquor as soon as he stepped on deck, he said, and as several nondescript persons moved toward him, he drew his automatic and ordered "stay where you are. You're all under arrest."

While holding his prisoners at bay, he hailed a police boat and sent it for reinforcements.

APPEAL IN SACCO CASE ON RULINGS OF THAYER

Trial Judge Signs Exceptions to His Refusal to Revoke Sentence of Condemned Men.

QUESTION OF BIAS TO SUPREME COURT

Prison Warden Says Sacco, Despite Hunger Strike of 27 Days, Is Not in State of Collapse.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The full bench of the Supreme Court, or as much of it as available, has been summoned to meet next Tuesday morning to hear arguments by defense counsel on the last two lines left open on Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti in the state courts.

Judge Webster Thayer of the Superior Court, who presided at the original trial of the two condemned men, and Justice George A. Sanderson of the Supreme Court, consented to allow appeals from previous adverse rulings.

Judge Thayer signed the defense bill of exceptions to his rulings of lack of jurisdiction on motions for a new trial, as well as to denials of a stay of execution and revocation of execution based largely on affidavits alleging prejudice on his part during the trial. These exceptions will be argued in the Supreme Court.

Thayer's refusal to withdraw from the case in favor of another Judge was also made a point for determination by the Supreme Court.

Previously Justice Sanderson granted the defense petition for exceptions to his refusal of a writ of error in favor of the condemned men.

Heretofore the Supreme Court has passed solely on points of law, but should the full bench decide to allow the writ of error it would go back to a single justice for a hearing on the merits.

Sacco Not in Collapse.
Warden Hendry of the State Prison today said that Sacco, who started the twenty-seventh day of his hunger strike by refusing his breakfast, was not in a state of collapse. It was explained at the prison that as long as Sacco was able to walk the prison physician would not consider attempting forcible feeding.

Vanzetti, who with Sacco is awaiting the outcome of the last legal moves by their counsel to prevent their execution, now set for the early morning of August 23, broke his intermittent fast after he received word of his latest reprieve. Under the physician's advice he is gradually working back toward a normal diet and this morning he had some beef tea and bread with his coffee.

"Sacco is not in a state of collapse," said Warden Hendry. "He did not collapse yesterday at any time. He walked alone from the death house to the prison proper and up the stairs to the second tier of cells in the Cherry Hill section. When he arrived he sat down on his cot."

"Later he walked from the cell to the barber shop where he had a conference with one of his counsel. He walked back to the cell unassisted by any official and he did not collapse afterwards."

Physician Reassures.
Dr. McLaughlin on his morning visit found Vanzetti asleep and Sacco writing. Sacco rose and came to the door of the cell where he remained in conversation with the physician for five minutes. He said Sacco stood without apparent effort.

Asked about the possibility of forcible feeding, he said: "I can't tell. I am watching him from day to day. Forcible feeding is not under consideration at present."

"Twelve More Days of Torture" Says Defense Committee.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—The Sacco-Vanzetti Defense committee issued a statement last night which said: "The reprieve for Sacco and Vanzetti means simply 12 more days of inhuman torture for them. The Defense Committee has no illusions about that. We will continue our fight for justice for these two men with redoubled energy. Neither the Governor's decision nor that of his advisory committee has in any way changed the fundamental issues in this case."

COMMITTEE INDORSES REED, REJECTS PRAISE

Fifteenth District Democrats
Urge Instructed Missouri
Delegation for Senator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 12.—Senator James A. Reed's supporters for an instructed delegation from Missouri for him for the Democratic presidential nomination encountered their first obstacle yesterday at a meeting of the Democratic Congressional Committee of the Fifteenth District. The Reed forces won the skirmish, but only after being forced to accept amendments to their resolution of indorsement which materially modified it.

The Congressional district meeting was dominated by Reed forces under the leadership of Frank L. Lee, a Joplin attorney, who had collected many proxies. The purpose of the meeting was to recommend to the Democratic State Committee a successor to G. F. Newburger, a member of the State Committee, who has removed from the State. Lee was successful in having named George J. Grayston of Joplin, who was opposed by a minority of the committee on the ground of party irregularity. Gray-ston having voted for the Republican nominee for President in 1920. Grayston gave assurances that he was a Democrat, and he was accepted as such by the committee.

As originally offered the resolution indorsing Reed praised him for "faithful service to the party," declared that he had worked "constantly in its interest," and contained an assertion that he would add strength to the ticket in Missouri.

Under the leadership of Mrs. F. L. Bradley of Joplin, vice chairman of the Jasper County Democratic Committee, the opposition succeeded in having these features stricken from the resolution, which in its final form merely indorsed Reed and asked for an instructed delegation from Missouri.

Another resolution indorsed former Gov. Gardner for the nomination for Governor, but after that had been adopted, supporters of other candidates obtained a blanket indorsement for the same nomination of Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City, State Senator McCawley of Carthage, Stephen B. Hunter of Cape Girardeau, Al Gossett of Kansas City, Dr. A. W. Nelson of Euncheon, Samuel W. Fordyce of St. Louis and Col. Bennett Clark of St. Louis.

INJURED BY GRENADESergt. J. G. Helber of St. Louis
Burned in Premature Explosion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEVADA, Mo., Aug. 12.—Sergt. J. G. Helber of Company B, 138th Infantry, whose home is at 4331 West Pine boulevard, St. Louis, and four other men in the Missouri National Guard camp here are confined to quarters as result of injuries received yesterday in the premature explosion of a white phosphorus grenade.

Helber was burned on the arms, hands and back by flying fragments of phosphorus while he and the others were being trained in chemical warfare.

The others injured, none seriously, are D. A. Owens, Mountain Grove; Oran Brown, Chillicothe; Mack Skully, Charleston, and F. C. Wade, Kansas City.

Before the phosphorus could cause any serious burns by remaining fixed to the skin, Lieut. Patrick F. Craig, in charge of the group, had rushed them to quarters in the camp ambulance and applied a special treatment prepared for such an emergency.

The men were preparing for a sham battle set for today in brigade maneuvers. Howitzers, one-pounders, machine guns and gas were to be used to cover the advance of more than 2000 men across the 640-acre reservation.

Maj. Gen. Harry A. Smith, commander of the Seventh Corps Area, including Missouri, inspected the Missouri National Guard yesterday for the first time since he succeeded Maj. Gen. B. A. Poore a year ago. He complimented the guardsmen on their proficiency in the technical phases of modern warfare. After an informal reception at headquarters, he departed for Fort Riley.

TOMATOES ARE PLENTIFUL
SERVE THEM FREQUENTLY

Tomatoes are sufficiently plentiful now to allow for serving several times a week. They are versatile vegetables and may be used in diversified cooked and uncooked dishes. Here are recipes for some attractive tomato dishes:

Stuffed Tomato Salad.
Wash and peel tomatoes. Remove thin slice from top of each and remove seeds and pulp. Sprinkle inside with salt, invert and set in ice box for one-half hour. Fill tomato shells with shredded fresh pineapple and chopped nut meats (using two-thirds pineapple and one-third nut meats) moistened with mayonnaise dressing. Serve on bed of crisp heart lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise and nut meats.Tomato Sandwiches.
Put fresh, crisp lettuce leaves washed and thoroughly dried, and slices of ripe tomatoes between thin slices of buttered bread, having a teaspoon of mayonnaise on each leaf.

Put a thick layer of sliced fresh tomatoes in bottom of greased baking-dish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a tablespoon sugar. Dot with bits of butter and sprinkle with thin layer of bread crumbs. Repeat layers of tomatoes and bread crumbs until all ingredients are used. Put bread crumbs on top, dot with butter and bake.

FRAGRANT CANTALOUPE

THAT REFRESH AND COOL

The Hot Weather Food Plan Should Include This Most Luscious of Melons.

Cantaloupes enjoy longer seasons every year. They are especially palatable in warm weather. Their high water content makes them cool and refreshing food. Some persons declare some melons do not agree with them, but it is a fact that well ripened melons may be served to invalids.

A delicious melon compote is made by allowing one pound of sugar and two cups of water to one quart of melon pulp cut in cubes or thin strips. A syrup should be made of the sugar and water.

and the melon added and cooked longer. This is most pleasing if eaten chilled and with a little whipped cream.

Another cold dessert is to use the sweetened pulp and combine with gelatin into a jelly mold in the usual manner. If the same syrup as above is used for a frozen cantaloupe ice one of the most refreshing and unusual cold desserts results. It is only necessary to make a sugary syrup, add the fruit pulp and freeze as for any sherbet.

Peach Delicious.
Line a round tin with vanilla ice cream. Fill center with whipped cream and sugar and sliced peaches. Pack in salt and ice for three hours. Remove from molds and slice. This recipe makes a delightful dessert.

When finished there should be about two cups of stock. Thicken this stock with one tablespoon flour mixed with a little cold water and add one tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Serve in border of hot boiled rice with chicken in the center with gravy poured over meat.

IN WEEK'S MENUS

Well-Cooked Attractive Food Appeals to the Family Appetite.

The recipes for dishes published in today's menus are for foods which are served on the average family table.

To make cheese biscuits take one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, six tablespoons grated cheese and two-thirds cup milk. Sift the dry ingredients together; add the cheese by mixing in lightly; add the milk slowly, just enough to hold dough together. Roll out on floured board about one-half inch thick; cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in a hot oven about 12 to 15 minutes.

Macaroni Salad.
Wash, scrape and cut celery stalks in thin slices crosswise; there should be one cup. Wipe, pare, peel and core two large apples, cut in slices and in small pieces. Chop one cup walnut meats, mix celery, apple and nut meats, moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Put one tablespoonful tomato jelly mixture in each individual mold. Then add vegetable and nut mixture and cover with tomato jelly. Chill, turn from molds and garnish with watercress.Combination Salad.
Take one large tomato, two beets, one onion, and chop them fine; have a cup of finely shredded radishes and shred finely one head of lettuce; one-fourth cup of French dressing.
Place a mound of shredded lettuce on each salad plate. Toss all vegetables together with French dressing just before serving. Place on shredded lettuce.Fricassee of Chicken.
Singe, wash and clean chicken and cut up into pieces. Place in saucepan with just enough boiling water to cover; add teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper and if desired teaspoon onion, juice. Boil slowly for two hours or until tender; add water from time to time, as it boils away.

When finished there should be about two cups of stock. Thicken this stock with one tablespoon flour mixed with a little cold water and add one tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Serve in border of hot boiled rice with chicken in the center with gravy poured over meat.

AT EVERY MEAL

This Good Practice Should Be Kept Up Throughout the Summer.

Every season certain dishes are popularized. Here are directions for preparing several unusual vegetable dishes which are having vogue this summer.

Summer Vegetable Loaf.
Use two large stalks of celery, three-fourths cup chopped onion, one egg, three tablespoons butter, fat or other shortening, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons mustard and two teaspoons grated onion. Cut celery into small pieces and cook in little boiling, salted water until tender. Drain off juice. Add all other ingredients in order listed. Mix them well shaped into a loaf, place in oiled or greased bread pan. Bake for 15 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with tomato sauce.Buttered Summer Vegetables.
Take one pound of fresh peas, two cups diced celery, one cup grated carrot, one-third cup butter, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup top milk or cream.
Barely cover prepared vegetables with boiling water and cook with cover off for 12 minutes. Add the remaining ingredients and serve at once.Baked Main Dish.
For this you will need two slices of smoked ham, four large potatoes, two carrots, one onion, one cup milk, one-half cup cream, one cup salt, one cup mustard and one cup vinegar. Line a buttered baking dish with the vegetables, sliced. Add salt and pepper to taste, and on top of this place one slice of ham. On top of the ham place another layer of vegetables and then the other slice of ham. Pour the milk over all and bake until tender.Tomato Raiter.
Two tablespoons butter, three-quarters cup top milk, or this cream, two eggs, one-eighth teaspoon soda, two tablespoons flour, two cups chopped cheese, three-quarters cup strained stewed tomatoes, salt, mustard and cayenne. Place the butter in the top part of a double boiler. Melt and add the flour. Add gradually the top milk, and as soon as the mixture begins to thicken add the tomatoes mixed with the soda. Add the cheese, lightly beaten eggs and seasonings, according to taste. Serve as soon as the cheese has melted on slices of toast made from graham bread.Use for Food Chopper.

VITAL POINTS FOR SUCCESSFUL CANNING

Success in Home Canning Depends Upon Attention to Small Details.

The canning season is with us and housewives who put up fruit and vegetables for next winter's use will find it expedient and profitable to read up on the best methods of home canning. The vital points of the canning process are outlined in the following few paragraphs.

1—Fresh fruits and vegetables must be selected. Imperfect ones should be set aside for immediate use.

2—Fruits and vegetables must be graded according to size, — large, medium and small. Each one forms its own canning. Use large fruits for preserves; medium and small fruits for jams and jellies.

3—All vegetables and fruits must be washed clean, drained and then prepared by hulling or peeling.

4—When berries are washed, they should be dried and then panned, no washing for cold pack canning is required. Berries after washing should be graded directly into jars.

5—Select jars of the right size to serve your family. Family of 2 use a 4-pint jar; family of 4 use a pint jar; family of 6 use a quart jar.

6—Wash jars, caps and new rubber rings in hot soapy water, rinse and immerse in pan of cold or lukewarm water. Boil jars and caps 15 minutes to sterilize. Dip in milk. Line a buttered baking dish with the vegetables, sliced. Add salt and pepper to taste, and on top of this place one slice of ham.

7—On top of the ham place another layer of vegetables and then the other slice of ham. Pour the milk over all and bake until tender.

Tomato Rarebit. Two tablespoons butter, three-quarters cup top milk, or thin cream, two cups, one-eighth teaspoon soda, two tablespoons flour, two cups chopped cheese, three-quarters cup strained stewed tomatoes, salt, mustard and cayenne.

Place the butter in the inner part of a double boiler. Melt and add the flour. Add gradually the top milk, and as soon as the mixture begins to thicken add the tomatoes mixed with the soda. Add the cheese, lightly beaten eggs and seasonings, according to taste. Serve as soon as the cheese has melted on slices of toast made from graham bread.

Improve Flavor of Peas. To give peas a better taste, try serving with chocolate sauce. It improves their flavor.

UNUSUAL PEACH DISHES

During the Peach Season, This Fruit Should Be Served at Every Meal.

While it is impossible to glid the lily or to make peaches more luscious, frozen peaches and peach salad glorify the fruit. For frozen peaches take six cups cream, two cups peach pulp, sugar, one-fourth teaspoon each vanilla and lemon extract. To cream, add peach pulp (obtained by rubbing peaches through sieve). Sweeten to taste and flavor. Freeze like ice cream or pack in ice and salt, and let stand for three hours.

Peach salad is made with three whole peaches or six halves, one-half cup nut meats, one cup celery, one cup mayonnaise, one-half cup whipped cream and a head of lettuce.

Mix chopped nuts and celery. Divide into even portions on six lettuce leaves. Keep well to the center and cover with one teaspoon mayonnaise, to which whipped cream has been added. Place an inverted half of peach in the center.

Advice To Housewife. Just a word about the vegetable plate. As you value the good-humored co-operation of your family, vary this service. The stereotyped combination of carrots, potatoes, beans and spinach palls when the same vegetables served in other combinations would meet with instant acclaim.

SERVE COLD FRUIT SOUPS

ON HOT SUMMER DAYS They Are Particularly Intriguing. In Addition to Their Food Value.

As the summer days are passing on, the cold soups are particularly intriguing just now. Orange and pineapple soup may all be made by allowing one-quarter teaspoon of salt for each three cups of boiling water. This is thickened by adding three tablespoons of Bermuda arrowroot, which has been rubbed smooth in one-quarter of a cup of cold water. When the mixture has thickened, two tablespoons of sugar are added and when the liquid is cool, three cups of fruit juice are stirred in. Such soups as these are delicious, and, of course, extremely wholesome.

Then there are numerous variations of the fruit soups. Raisins lend themselves well. One cup of seeded raisins is chopped and cooked in a quart of meat stock. This is then "bound" by stirring in six tablespoons of flour, which has been creamed with four tablespoons of butter. With the addition of a beaten egg, two cups of top milk and seasonings to taste, we have an extremely nourishing soup.

Iced Blueberry Soup. Put two cups of blueberries in a soup pot. Cover them with four cups of cold water. Add one cup of sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, two cloves, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and one tablespoon corn starch. Mix corn starch with two tablespoons of the water. Boil 30 minutes. Take off stove, strain into a pitcher and is decidedly and add an additional half cup of blueberries and cook 10 minutes longer.

Hot Dish At All Meals. But while you are reducing the number of hot foods you serve in summer, don't forget that one hot dish with the meal is very important, for health as well as pleasure. A hot dish, such as soup, stimulates digestion and is decidedly beneficial when so many cold foods are being served on the family table.

Cabbage Tomato Salad. Wash and scoop out the tomatoes to form cups; turn upside down to drain. Chop the cabbage quite fine, shred the pepper and chop the pickles. Combine all of the ingredients and moisten with the boiled dressing. Fill the tomato cups just before serving and top with the boiled dressing. Serve on lettuce or shredded cabbage.

THREE LAYER SANDWICHES

Three layer sandwiches are filling and delicious for outdoor eating. One tasty combination is one layer pimento cheese, one layer peanut butter. On each layer dab a few dabs of prepared mustard. Another sandwich calls for one layer pimento cheese, one layer mashed cheese and nut meats seasoned with mustard. Other combinations will suggest themselves. In preparing this type of sandwich always bear in mind that one of the layers must contain a highly seasoned filling. Then be sure to cut the bread thin else the finished sandwich will be entirely too thick to be eaten comfortably. These sandwiches are splendid for outings, automobile touring and camping trips.

Here are several "dressy" dressings that are suitable for any fruit or vegetable combination.

Cream Dressing.
One-fourth teaspoon mustard, two eggs, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons lemon juice, four tablespoons paprika, one-third cup milk, one-half pint heavy cream. Mix salt, mustard and paprika and when thoroughly blended, add eggs, slightly beaten, lemon juice and milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cool and add cream, beaten until stiff.

Thousand Island Dressing.
One-half cup olive oil, juice one-half lemon, juice one-half orange, one teaspoon grated onion, three teaspoons chopped parsley, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, six olives sliced, one teaspoon Worcestershire, one-half cup mayonnaise, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika. Put all the ingredients into a jar, after having first mixed dry ingredients and dissolved them in the fruit juices. Adjust rubber (two may be needed, put on cover and shake until the mixture is smooth. Set in icebox till time to serve. Another shaking may be needed then.

French Dressing.
One-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon sugar, six tablespoons oil, two tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar.

Put all ingredients into a bottle and shake well.
Oil Mayonnaise Dressing.
Two yolks of egg, or one whole egg; one-half teaspoon of mustard, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one and one-half cups of oil, juice of one lemon or same amount of vinegar, one teaspoon of onion juice. Have all ingredients and bowl cold. Beat egg well with beater, add mustard, salt and pepper. Stir in the oil slowly at first. Thin with lemon juice or vinegar and add onion juice. The dressing should be jelly-like. Keep very cold.

EITHER SALAD OR DESSERT
A Delicious Combination of Fruits Frozen to a Mush.

Take equal portions of bananas, peaches, white grapes, halved and seeded, and pineapple, with a few blanched almonds. The larger fruits should be diced, mixed with the nuts and grapes, and then moistened with the dressing. Mix gently, then place the salad in a can or the ice-cream freezer and pack in ice and salt and leave to freeze without turning and without the dasher or crank. The salad must not become solid, but should be served while in the freeze stage. It may be arranged on lettuce leaves or in halves of chilled cantaloupes. Garnish with strips of maraschino cherries.

A dressing for this salad is made by cooking to a thick syrup one cup of sugar and one-half cup water. When this mixture threads, pour it slowly over the beaten yolks of two eggs, beating all the time while pouring. Whip to a froth the whites of the two eggs and whip into the sugar mixture. Then cook the dressing for two or three minutes. After removing from stove, add the juice of one lemon and one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Chill the dressing thoroughly before using.

A REGULAR MEAL

An Intriguing Summertime Dish That Is Readily Prepared.

This is a luncheon in itself although if you search for the recipe in the cook book you will find it under the salad section for it is called "Jellied Luncheon Salad," a very important name for a very delicious dish. For this dish soak one tablespoon of gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water. Simmer two cups of tomato juice for 10 minutes with one tablespoon minced onion, a bit of bay leaf, one-half teaspoon salt, a few celery leaves, one clove, one-eighth teaspoon paprika and one tablespoon vinegar. Strain the mixture and while hot add it to the softened gelatin. Stir until dissolved. When jelly begins to congeal add three-fourths cup diced celery, one minced green pepper and three-fourths cup minced cooked ham. Pour into small individual molds which have been rubbed with olive oil. Set in ice box. Serve on heart of lettuce leaves with either mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing.

Keep Cakes Fresh.

To prevent cakes from becoming stale, put a thick slice of bread in the tin in which they are kept and renew it every third day.

CONCERNING APPLE PIE

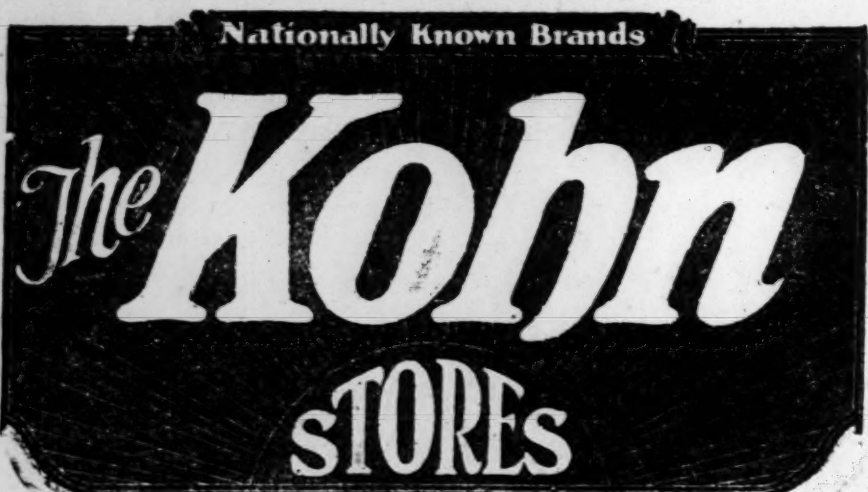

One of the Most Popular Pastries and Seasonable Right Now.

Apple pie is food for the gods when it is rich and well made and seasoned. But when it is made of green apples it is pie de luxe. An excellent green apple pie may be made according to these directions: For the crust take one and one-half cups flour, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half cup solid shortening, and four to six tablespoons water.

For the filling use six apples, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon mace, one tablespoon butter and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon. Sift flour and salt; cut in shortening with two knives. Add water, cutting into a soft dough. Toss on a slightly floured board or magic cover, pat and roll out. Wash, dry and cut apples fine.

Sift sugar, salt and spices and well. Mix thoroughly with apples. Dot with small pieces of butter toward the center and press edges. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. An additional epicurean may be obtained by adding the crust of the baked pie with pieces of American cheese and turning the pie to the oven a few minutes to allow the cheese to melt and form a glass over the Bananas and the Chief dietitians in hospitals, nursing and private practice are the value of the ripe banana food for invalids and children. Physicians have been particularly successful in using banana in the treatment of certain diseases caused by malnutrition.

ICEBOX DESSERTS ARE SEASONABLE

Many of Them Are Even More Delicious Than Cooked Pastries.

Icebox desserts have caught and held the popular favor not only because they are easy to make and serve but also because they require practically no cooking with the added convenience that they may be made the day before needed and set away in the ice box or electric refrigeration compartment until dessert time next day. The old-fashioned charlotte russe is probably the mother of the modern ice box cake. Charlotte russe is easy to prepare by lining small paper cases with lady fingers and pouring over them a stiff custard or gelatin custard. Charlotte russe can be varied by flavoring with various fruit juices and adding Marshchino cherries, bits of nut meat and silvers of candied fruit.

Icebox Cake. This type of icebox dessert differs somewhat from the above as in the case of icebox cake around cake crumbs or rolled macaroons or other rich sweet wafers are used to line a cake mold. Then, stiffly whipped cream, sweetened, or a raw egg custard is poured over the cake crumbs. The mixture is placed in the refrigerator for 24 hours. When ready to serve, fruit syrups or crushed fruit or berries may be served as a sauce.

Another type of icebox cake is made with a cooked custard made of one-fourth cup of water, one-half cup of sugar, two squares of chocolate, four egg yolks, one cup butter, one cup powdered sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and the four egg whites. Two dozen lady fingers are also needed.

Line square cake pan with waxed paper. Arrange split lady fingers around sides and across bottom. Prepare custard by cooking water, sugar and chocolate in double boiler until mixture is smooth. Add well beaten egg yolks and cook minute longer. Cream butter, add powdered sugar and vanilla, and add to chocolate mixture which has been slightly cooled. Beat egg whites very stiff and fold into the chocolate mixture or completed custard. Carefully pour single layer of this mixture over lady fingers on custard, then a second layer of custard. Set in ice box 24 hours. unmold and cut in thin slices. Serve with whipped cream and garnish as preferred.

TWENTY-FOUR HOUR SALAD

This Delicacy May Be Served Either as a Salad or a Dessert.

For this versatile dish take one can pineapple, one box marshmallows, one-half pint whipping cream, one egg, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon flour and three-fourths cup pineapple juice.

Beat egg well, add sugar and flour and pineapple juice and let cook until it thickens, cool, dice pineapple, cut marshmallows in halves or fourths, whip cream till thick, add to pineapple mixture and blend well. Add diced marshmallows and pineapple, garnish with chopped nuts and Marshchino cherries.

When thoroughly mixed put in mold or dish and set away in ice box for 24 hours. If served for salad, place on lettuce hearts and add cream mayonnaise. When served as dessert, garnish with whipped cream and Marshchino cherries.

Green Corn a Delicious, Important Summer Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

When the early settlers came to America they found the Indians cultivating corn. From that day to this "Indian corn" has been a famous product of our country.

corn kernels is irritating to sensitive digestive organs. But sweet corn is an ideal food. It sweeps the intestinal tract and helps to cleanse and purify it.

Maryland Sheriff Defends Policy—Says They "Aren't Like Other Criminals."

By the Associated Press.
DENTON, Md., Aug. 12.—Because 18 convicted bootleggers lodged in jail here "aren't like other criminals," Sheriff William H. Jackson says he permits them to fish in the Choptank River close by, later through long afternoons on its bank, and play baseball in the "jail yard," an unwalled plot behind the lockup. The Sheriff said he also has taken "several of the boys" for a ride at night so they could get some air.

"I believe in treating the boys fair, and in return they do not cause me a bit of trouble," he said. "They are locked in their cells at night, and then I let them out in the jail yard. The boys can fish in the river if they feel like it, or sometimes they play pinochle or baseball, just as they feel like doing. None of them ever made an attempt to escape."
They may not, however, sit on the front porch of the building, which also is the Sheriff's residence, for:
"Once the boys sat up on the front porch of the jail, but they threw too many cigarette stumps about, so my wife made them stay in the yard. Then they went upon the porch of a neighbor to sit, but I soon stopped that and told them they must stay around the jail yard."

When informed of the situation, United States District Attorney Woodcock said he would investigate and prosecute those responsible if it is found the prisoners are granted "illegal liberties."

BREAKS OF 10 TO 25 PTS. IN POOL STOCKS

Collapse of Several Specialties Follows Announcement of Stock Exchange Failure as Result of Decline in Electrical Issue Thursday.

By the Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—Trading in the stock market was demoralized today by the collapse of several pool specialties following the failure of a stock exchange. Extreme breaks of 10 to nearly 25 points took place in a number of the volatile issues, while the seasonal dividend-paying railroad and industrial shares sold down 2 to 10 points. So great was the volume of trading that the final quotations did not appear on the ticker tape until 26 minutes after the market had closed, the day's sales falling just below 2,000,000 shares.

The stock exchange failure, the first in more than two years, was the direct aftermath of the sensational collapse yesterday in the common stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. Stocks were being well supported when the suspension of the firm was announced from the roster of the exchange. Selling orders appeared in large volume, particularly in stocks known to be under pool sponsorship, and their execution resulted in the touching off of numerous "stop loss" orders, bringing about a wide open break.

Gen. Motors Up and Down.
Little attention was paid by the market to outside news developments. Credit conditions continued easy despite the announcement last night of a further increase of more than $18,000,000 in brokers' loans to a new high level for all time. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans and several of them issued more stringent regulations regarding collateral on those already in force.

General Motors' initial response to the proposed 5-for-1 stock split was disappointing, the stock opening 1 1/2 points lower at 21 1/2 and then falling down to 21 1/4. Subsequently the stock sold as high as 22 1/4, then crept to 21 1/4, closing at 21 1/4.

Manhattan to 50 1/2.
Manhattan Electrical Supply opened at 61, advanced to 64 1/2, broke to 59 1/2, a new low for the year as compared with the recent high of 132, and closed at 56. Eureka Vacuum broke from a high of 74 1/2 to 58, and then rallied to 59, off 4 1/2. Other sharp breaks took place in Houston, where Drupp moved from 132 1/2 to 112; Air Reduction, from 184 to 163; Westinghouse, from 45 1/2 to 34; Pittsburgh Coal, from 50 to 36; Timken Roller Bearing, from 129 1/2 to 121 1/2. Several of these made substantial recoveries from a low level.

Rails also were heavily liquidated, with the largest losses being recorded in the Southwestern merger issues and the Eastern coalers. Lehigh Valley, Delaware & Hudson, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, Texas & Pacific, "Seo" common, "Katy" common and Wabash closed 2 to 6 points net lower.

Foreign Exchange Quiet.
Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with little change in quotations. Demand sterling and French francs ruled around 4.53 and 3.21 1/2 cents, respectively. Japanese yen were heavy.

The commodity markets were reactionary in sympathy with the decline in stock prices. Wheat futures held only a fraction of a cent higher. Cotton futures closed 15 to 28 points net lower, and coffee futures declined 4 to 8 points. Sugar quotations held fairly steady.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Aug. 12, 1927, $23,000,000, compared with $22,000,000 for the previous day. The clearing for the week ending Aug. 12, 1927, was $1,300,000,000, compared with $1,200,000,000 for the week ending Aug. 11, 1927.

The stock exchange failure, the first in more than two years, was the direct aftermath of the sensational collapse yesterday in the common stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. Stocks were being well supported when the suspension of the firm was announced from the roster of the exchange. Selling orders appeared in large volume, particularly in stocks known to be under pool sponsorship, and their execution resulted in the touching off of numerous "stop loss" orders, bringing about a wide open break.

Gen. Motors Up and Down.
Little attention was paid by the market to outside news developments. Credit conditions continued easy despite the announcement last night of a further increase of more than $18,000,000 in brokers' loans to a new high level for all time. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans and several of them issued more stringent regulations regarding collateral on those already in force.

General Motors' initial response to the proposed 5-for-1 stock split was disappointing, the stock opening 1 1/2 points lower at 21 1/2 and then falling down to 21 1/4. Subsequently the stock sold as high as 22 1/4, then crept to 21 1/4, closing at 21 1/4.

Manhattan to 50 1/2.
Manhattan Electrical Supply opened at 61, advanced to 64 1/2, broke to 59 1/2, a new low for the year as compared with the recent high of 132, and closed at 56. Eureka Vacuum broke from a high of 74 1/2 to 58, and then rallied to 59, off 4 1/2. Other sharp breaks took place in Houston, where Drupp moved from 132 1/2 to 112; Air Reduction, from 184 to 163; Westinghouse, from 45 1/2 to 34; Pittsburgh Coal, from 50 to 36; Timken Roller Bearing, from 129 1/2 to 121 1/2. Several of these made substantial recoveries from a low level.

Rails also were heavily liquidated, with the largest losses being recorded in the Southwestern merger issues and the Eastern coalers. Lehigh Valley, Delaware & Hudson, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, Texas & Pacific, "Seo" common, "Katy" common and Wabash closed 2 to 6 points net lower.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

—By—
Marguerite Moores Marshall

AWAY FOR THE SUMMER.

HE GETS UP when he pleases—and there's nobody to tell him that he mustn't sleep another half hour, or he'll be late at the office.

He breakfasts on coffee made just as strong as he likes it. Nobody warns him that it isn't good for him when it's so black, or that he ought to eat a real breakfast—eggs and toast and melon—or that he might appreciate having a wife who's willing to get breakfast for him, or that it isn't very sociable to hide behind the newspaper when she won't see him again until night!

He departs officiously, without being urged to take an umbrella since it may rain before night.

He carries no letters to mail, no list of commissions to execute, no parting prohibition against pastry with whipped cream on it for lunch—"because you know, dear, it's likely to give you a sick headache."

He works all day long without the interruption of a telephone message from the domestic front, to announce that he's to bring home a can of salmon from the little Italian grocery near his office, or that he positively must be on time for dinner because Jack and Irene are coming over to play bridge afterward, or that Junior has flunked in arithmetic.

He stays at the office an extra half-hour, to catch up on some personal correspondence and to gossip with an old friend who drops in at quarter-to-five—and he doesn't have to telephone excuses for anticipated tardiness, or to tell fibs, after arriving home, about a subway lay-up.

He drops in at the club before dinner—and he doesn't have to give anybody an explanation of that. He dines according to a menu chosen by himself, instead of one arranged—as it sensibly must be—to conform to the household budget.

He spends an evening of indolent, innocent diversion—oh, yes, he does, in 39 cases out of 100—and when he gets home nobody asks, "Where were you? What did you do? Why didn't you telephone? What do you see in him? Didn't you lose a lot of money? Do you think you can afford that sort of thing? Why don't you spend your evenings with your wife, after leaving her alone all day?"

Or he has a little party at home—and nobody cares what time it breaks up, or whether the ashes always hit the ash-trays, or what wet circles leave their pale reminder on the table.

He goes to bed—and nobody inquires, plaintively, "Are you going to read all night?—do you realize what time it is?"

Of course, any man should know that if, because his wife loves him that she questions, prompts, warns, telephones, keeps tabs, wants his society, doesn't want him to lose his money, doesn't want him to lose his health and the habits that make or mar it.

Of course, any woman should know that a man profits by such gentle attentions—and that she cannot resist giving them when she's around.

Nevertheless, many a little boy likes to play hooky from school, and many a grown-up boy likes to break domestic training! Not that he loves his wife less, but that he likes his own way—occasionally.

TO DIANA AND APHRODITE.
(And, more particularly, Jane.)
I like girls
They're awfully sweet:
They fix your hair
And make you neat.

They slouch along
They wear silk hose:
They never lack powder
On their nose.

They sing love songs
When you're in the mood:
They all learn manners
So they won't be rude.

They talk out loud
In subway trains:
They never wear rubbers
When it rains.

They spend all their money
On silly clothes:
They never tell you
Where it goes.

I like girls
They're awfully sweet:
Once in a while
They stand Dutch treat.

At Washington man got six months the other day for spanking his wife because she bobbed her hair. It would have been perfectly safe and much more efficient punishment for him to have gazed disdainfully at her shorn poll and to have remarked, "All the really smart women are letting their hair grow!"

Vienna Women Can Wear Men's Garb—Headline.
"New York women not only can, but do," commented the Cynical Husband, as he gazed upon the knickerbockered, sweat-soaked, golf-stocking females taking a stroll of a windy evening on a Rock-away boardwalk.

Gov. Moore of New Jersey is the latest to declare that movies demoralize youth, but we're betting real mothers won't agree with him—not because they believe in movies but because they believe in youth!

A COAT FOR FAIR AND FOUL WEATHER

Two-Garment Costume Designed by New York Man Adaptable to Men's and Women's Wear.

TO provide a coat for all emergencies and all weathers, Louis Botha, a New York designer, has developed the garment shown in the photographs. Its usefulness is not in the opinion of Mr. Botha, confined to its use by women. A masculine version provides a coat that may be used in all weathers by chauffeurs and passengers in automobiles and even for horseback riding.

The front view of the garment shows what appears to be a well-designed, loosely fitting coat for general outdoor wear—and such it is, except that by a special construction of the inner part of the skirt and of the coat and a buttoned down panel which folds away in the front of it, it is transformed into a coat and knicker combination which for riding in rough weather, motoring or hiking the added usefulness of a second garment and affords complete protection to any costume over which it may be worn. The changing of the drawing and the adjustment of a buttoning here and there complete the transformation.

For horseback riding there is complete protection to the top of the boots or leggings and it makes a very desirable suit for bicycle riding. The pictures emphasize the usefulness of the garment for women's wear. The masculine version of the garment will appeal to men who are outdoors in all weathers and want a garment which fits closely and is practically protective.

Rhubarb "Fool" Is New British Culinary Quirk

LIVERPOOL—Rhubarb "fool" is one of the many dishes British culinary experts are commending to housewives who want to make rhubarb "interesting."

This dish is made by serving stewed rhubarb with custard or by putting rhubarb into a serving dish and pouring the stewed rhubarb over them.

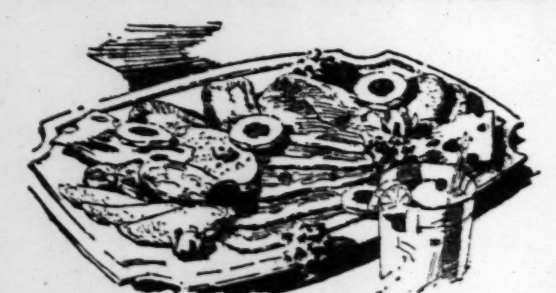

The English domestic science experts say that rhubarb should not be cut into small bits and stewed in a lot of water. It should be left in pieces just as long as will fit in a stew pan, and only enough water should be poured into the pan to cover the bottom, they advise. Sugar should be added. Then the stew pan should be covered and rhubarb allowed to cook slowly. By this method the stalks can be kept whole and cook chiefly in their own juice.

For Summer Afternoons.

For summer afternoons when it is necessary to look one's best at bridge or tea, the desired result will be achieved by wearing a frock of palest pink crepe de chine that is cut on the coat with a surplus fastening. The surplus is outlined by a frill of the crepe de chine shirred for a piece of about three inches and then shirred again at the edge, so that the effect is that of a soft puff.

Suitcase Comforts

A novel contrivance that is guaranteed to keep one's frocks free from wrinkles even though the suitcase receives rough handling while traveling, consists of three pieces of cardboard the exact size of the inside of the case. These are covered with cretonne and the dresses are stretched smoothly over them and fastened in the corners with paper clips. At the end of the trip the clothes emerge as free from wrinkles as if just from the shop.

Terror of Terrors—Loss of a Child's Love

When a Little Girl Grows Up to Become Jealous of Her Mother.

HOW happy she was—the young wife! So happy that she couldn't keep from singing, and all the songs she sang were lullabies.

She made little dresses, all with her own hands. Such funny little simple little dresses.

And nearly every one of them was flowered—pink flowers and blue flowers—pink flowers and blue flowers—pink flowers and blue flowers.

pretty and such a good-natured, happy little thing, and the baby's mother was always telling funny stories about the baby and making up funny stories to tell the baby and the baby was such a loving affectionate, curly-headed, red-cheeked little thing you couldn't look at her without loving her.

"What will she be when she grows up?" thought the mother. "A great singer? A great writer? A great actress? No, I hope she'll just be a nice, kind-hearted, good-natured, happy woman with a good husband and a house full of children and a garden and some dogs, and a few real friends."

"Yes, that's what I wish for my baby, a home and children and the fire on the hearth and twilight and dawn and the dew and the wind—and all the children, they keep the heart so warm—the children."

Then a dear friend of the mother lost her little boy and it was hard to think of her even—she suffered so.

"How does she live through it?" thought the baby's mother. "How, where does she get the strength to go on?"

And the little girl grew up and the mother loved her with a deep love that was the very core of her heart.

Now the little girl has gone away to live in another city and she does not care very much for her mother. She seems almost to hate her for the mother has been successful in a small way and has a few dear friends who really love her. The little girl is jealous of her own heart.

There was a while when the little wife was not so gay. She hung between life and death, and she suffered the most hideous agony that a human being can suffer—and live. For two years she did not walk one single step—but she didn't cry about that very much. The worst was that she couldn't take care of her own baby, not for over a year, but after that she had her chair drawn close to the baby's playroom and she sang to the baby and laughed with the baby and was happy, even if she could not walk. Slowly, slowly she grew stronger and by and by she walked as well as anyone else. The baby was so mother and hates her because she is what she calls "more popular." "Was there ever any tragedy in the world so bitter and so hard to bear?"

Sometimes the mother wishes that she was lame again and could not walk and that she was suffering great physical pain that would be nothing if she could only look into the little girl's face and see there the love she saw long ago.

Life is sometimes a terrible ride, isn't it? Ah, well, some day perhaps we will understand it all—what do you think?

Some Odd Facts.

It is estimated that laundry work in Great Britain gives employment to about 115,000 people.

Lightships at present under construction for Trinity House have, it is said, a much better light, worked from huge dynamo, than those already in use, and will be fitted with wireless, so as to keep them in touch with the shore.

AS MUCH as tiger-hunting from the backs of elephants is the principal outdoor sport in Siam, the Princes of that country always include cat-killing when entertaining distinguished foreigners.

A few years ago one of the nobility fixed up a tiger hunt to which he invited an Englishman, a German, a Frenchman, an Italian and an American. It was a big success from start to finish and the jungle was raked free and left until the supply of fresh elephant gave out.

At a banquet given by the host he invited the foreign hunters to give a toast to the royal sport. Said the Englishman: "To the noble and defiant beast who resists with all his spirit and dies with all his heart."

The German: "To the perfection of weapons and ammunition against which no living thing can stand."

The Frenchman: "To the beautiful feline who lives gloriously, loves fiercely and expires with a sad look in the eyes."

The Italian: "To the royal creature who has the cunning of Machiavelli, the fearlessness of Benito Mussolini."

The American: "Here's to more and larger elephants!"

VITAMINES

PRUNES are the ideal summer sweets for children, for while they contain more than 60 percent energy-giving and body-building food (more than six times the amount contained in most fruits) they are easy to assimilate, tonic, and there are a host of delightful ways to serve them to appeal to lazy summer appetites. Cook them this way:

Soak prunes for a few hours (over night) in cold water, simmer gently until fully softened, never boil. Chill before serving.

Eat prunes in some way every day.

This is the time of year when the specialty shops located at the big resort hotels and in the smart country clubs reap their harvest. Patrons want something new with which to astonish their companions. The larger department stores make it a point to clear their shelves of summer goods before August and the specialty shops are the sole resort left.

After having failed, this little beauty was determined that science should provide her baby girl with remaining glory.

OTHER—My husband is the eternally paid sort—I don't believe the poor b ever had a well look for yourself. You are really a little more than a baby.

As for my own head covering, it is really a little more than a baby. As matters stand, my baby is one month is not likely to be asked to pose for hair ads. But I am determined to modernize it, and shall provide it with something more than these wisps of natural fringe which her mother's shivering fingers have been so busy with.

Now, where do we begin?

you will need to insure that your baby's hair is really a little more than a baby.

First, brush, some baby's hair, a pure cream to end the hair grows thick enough to be a wide-toothed comb.

Blunt ends. I am taking it for granted that there will be an abundance of sunshine and fresh air and sufficient of the food, for I know I need not and you that the hair is fed by the blood stream.

DAILY READER—To make ice cream use one quart of new milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons of cornstarch; beat the milk in a dish, set in hot water, then stir in the cornstarch, mixed smooth in a little milk, let it boil for one or two minutes, then remove from stove and cool, and stir in the eggs and a half-pound of sugar. If to be extra nice, add a pint of rich cream and one-fourth pound of sugar, strain the mixture and when cool add the flavoring and freeze as follows: Prepare the freezer in the usual manner, turn the crank 100 times, then pour upon the ice and mix a quart of boiling water from the tea-kettle. Fill up again with ice and salt, turn the crank 80 times one way and 20 times the other. By this time it will turn very hard, indicating that the cream is frozen sufficiently.

COOLIDGE IS TOLD HE WAS CHOICE OF LABOR LEADERS

Secretary Davis Says Survey Shows Almost Unanimous Regret at President's Announcement.

HIS NOMINATION YET FORECAST

Recent Guests at Summer White House Predict He Will Run if Named by National Convention.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 12.—An impersonal and unofficial survey conducted by officials of the labor Department on their own behalf disclosed that labor leaders were virtually unanimous in regretting President Coolidge's announcement that he did not choose to run for re-election. Secretary Davis declared today upon his arrival for a visit at the summer White House.

The Secretary reached Rapid City by train, having taken an airplane from Mooseheart, Ill., yesterday to catch the train at Huron, S. D. His visit was described as purely complimentary and as not having to do with any particular problem.

"Our survey showed," Davis said, "that the labor leaders were sorry Mr. Coolidge decided not to run. They had learned not to expect any favors from him but believe he gives them a square deal."

Silent on Sacco-Vanzetti Case.
The Secretary declined to comment on the Sacco-Vanzetti case. He said his department was making an investigation to determine whether deportable aliens are under the jurisdiction of the State or the Federal government.

There has been an increase in unemployment, he said, in some divisions of industry, but he declared conditions generally were favorable.

Nomination of Coolidge Predicted
Whatever President Coolidge intends to do next year regarding the Republican nomination, a group of his friends, including a Cabinet member, a Senator, a Governor and several Congressmen who were his guests yesterday predicted that he would run if the convention nominates him.

They all were convinced that Mr. Coolidge meant exactly what he said in his statement that "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," but the opinion was by some that the President would be drafted.

The group which visited at the Summer White House included Secretary Work, Senator Fess, of Ohio, Gov. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, Representatives William E. Hull, of Illinois, Knutson and Selvig, of Minnesota, and M. C. Brush, president of the International Mercantile Marine Association, an old friend of Mr. Coolidge.

To all of this group who expressed their sentiments to Mr. Coolidge regarding his choice not to run, the President replied substantially, it was said, that "this is not a one-man country." "Ten years is a long time for any man to be President. There are several men who would make good presidents."

The most outspoken of the group were Senator Fess, and Representative Hull. Both predicted that the convention would deadlock and that Mr. Coolidge would be named.

Work's Recommendation.
Secretary Work said he had advised the President to transfer by executive order, the administration of insular affairs from the war to the Interior Department, in order to carry out Mr. Coolidge's desire to place insular possessions under civil rule. He declared the Western States he had visited—Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota, were of the opinion that President Coolidge had left prosperity in his wake and that he should be renominated.

Coolidge Seen Root.
For the first time since he has been President and perhaps for the first time in his life, President Coolidge saw a fist fight.

A three-round amateur boxing match was in progress at the fair grounds here when the President arrived to attend the Elks Show. Mr. Coolidge seemed surprised to find a boxing match in progress but he proved to be an interested spectator.

School Sports Should Replace Military Training to Promote World Peace, Educators Say

World Federation of Teachers Opposes "Needless" Preparedness, and Seeks National Good Will in Games.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—The eagerly awaited reports of the committees which have been dealing with the Herman-Jordan educational plan for the establishment of world peace were presented to the World Federation of Education Associations here yesterday.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford University, came time ago won a prize of $25,000 offered by Raphael Herman of Washington, D. C., for the best educational plan which would tend to produce world peace.

It was the findings of the committees which had been studying this plan that the federation heard.

The report on "military preparedness" was presented to the conference by E. J. Sainsbury of England, chairman of that committee. A resolution contained in this report proposes that the World Federation shall work for the following goal:

That systematic and technical military training shall not be given to youths under 18 years of age in any civil educational institution in the world; that no institution shall make military training a compulsory subject of the curricula; that physical training, sports, etc., shall be substituted for the above; and that there shall be a limitation of armaments, leading eventually to the abolishing of all "needless" military preparedness.

The report on "international athletic sports" was presented by Daniel Chase, of New York City, chairman of the committee. This report expresses the belief that competitive sports by teams are of increasing importance in bringing the nations of the earth together. The committee, it says, as an illustration, that soccer football is now played all over the world under uniform rules, 63 nations belonging to the International Soccer Association.

The committee says the teaching of soccer and similar team games and competition, with emphasis on the proper standards of conduct, should be part of the international education program. The resolution also provides for a study to be made of the scope, objectives and procedures pertaining to international competition. The result of this study would be embodied in a report to be submitted to the world federation and made available to all interested organizations.

Would Further Good Will. Dr. P. W. Kuo, of Nanking, China, presented the report on "Education for Peace." This report recommends, among other things, the following:

That this committee should publish a directory, listing the names, objects and principal officers of organizations working for international good will; that the committee should co-operate with other organizations in the preparation of bibliographies that would inform teachers regarding the literature available to education for internationalism; that this committee should be provided with the facilities necessary for the immediate commencement of its work.

The report of the committee on "The Teaching of History" was presented by the chairman, Dr. Laura Ulrich, of Winnetka, Ill. This report recommends that all the leading history textbooks of all the principal nations of the world shall be examined to see if they are fair, and with a view to broadening their point of view.

DAIRY SHOW BUILDING IN FOREST PARK POSSIBLE Association Seeks Permission of City to Erect Structure to Cost $500,000.

Representatives of the city, the Chamber of Commerce and the National Dairy Show Association will confer within a few weeks regarding the dairyman's proposal to build a $500,000 exhibition structure in the south central portion of Forest Park, as the permanent home of the annual Dairy Show.

The show, held each fall, would require use of the building for less than one-half of the year, and it is promised that for at least 20 weeks of every year the building, with 400,000 square feet of floor space, would be turned over to the city, for use as an indoor civic center, and for exhibitions and celebrations.

The park location sought, opposite Forest Park Highlands, is that in which the Greater St. Louis Bay yesterday while trying to land on the starting field. Capt. James L. Griffin, the pilot; Ted Lundgren, navigator; and Lawrence Wells, a passenger, escaped unhurt and were dragged out of the water by attaches of the field. The plane was wrecked.

OPPOSITIONS OF PROHIBITION PLAN STATE-WIDE BODY An effort to expand the Missouri Association Against Prohibition from a small group into a representative State-wide organization was made today by approximately 80,000, has been begun by James W. Byrnes, its vice-president. The association's offices are in the Security building.

One representative has been named for each precinct in 93 counties, in which the work is being carried on, and through these representatives it is expected 10 men and 10 women will be found in each precinct for members of the association.

The plans now are to participate actively in the next campaign in the interest of candidates opposed to prohibition, though it may later be decided to again attempt to repeal the Missouri State dry enforcement act.

WAR DEPARTMENT HAS PLAN TO SPEED UP MOBILIZATION

Army Units to Be Assigned to New Divisions for Quick Call When Needed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—In order to have six Infantry and three Cavalry divisions available for combat duty on comparatively short notice, the War Department is laying plans for a reorganization of divisional units. The department intends to reach its objective by reassigning units to the newly established Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Infantry and Second and Third Cavalry. The new divisions are practically complete. There are, however, certain inactive units for which the department plans to provide a personnel in the near future.

It is not expected that these new units be ready to go out on the next call, but that they be available, nevertheless, as fighting troops in an emergency. Under the plan an army headquarters group will be provided, with three headquarters for a Cavalry corps, which are to be established as reserve units for quick mobilization. Headquarters for the existing First, Second and Third Infantry and First Cavalry are to remain unchanged.

BISSELL'S POINT URGED FOR MUNICIPAL AVIATION PORT Kiwanis Club Committee Adopts Resolution Recommending City-Owned Tract.

A resolution recommending the location of an airport on land owned by the city at Bissell's Point, in Baden, was adopted by the Aviation Committee of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, following a club luncheon yesterday at American Annex Hotel.

Harold M. Bixby, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, addressed the club, urging immediate action in the advancement of commercial aviation in St. Louis.

The speakers pointed out there are two good locations for airports in the city, one at Bissell's Point, the other on the south side of Forest Park near the Mounted Police Station. An airport at the former location would provide facilities for land and seaplanes both, Neun said, the tract lying along the river near the Baden pumping station of the city waterworks.

Delay in establishing an airport here might have an untoward effect on the favorable publicity St. Louis has received as a result of Col. Lindbergh's flights, Neun told the club.

START OF HONOLULU FLIGHT PUT OFF UNTIL TUESDAY NOON Aviators Unanimously Consent to Postponement of Contest for $35,000 Prize.

The latest entry to be removed from the race is the twin motor triplane "Spirit of Los Angeles," which crashed into San Francisco Bay yesterday while trying to land on the starting field. Capt. James L. Griffin, the pilot; Ted Lundgren, navigator; and Lawrence Wells, a passenger, escaped unhurt and were dragged out of the water by attaches of the field. The plane was wrecked.

URGES CHECK ON REAL ESTATE TAXES FOR CITY GOVERNMENT National Association to Nominate New Officers at Convention Today.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Aug. 12.—Delegates to the twentieth annual meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards today prepared to nominate a slate of officers. Harry N. Culver, of Los Angeles, founder of Culver City, Cal., and Harry G. Seander of Chicago, were mentioned for the presidency of the organization.

Houston, Tex., was regarded as the probable 1928 mid-winter meeting place. The regular summer convention city of next year will be selected in November at Chicago, the directors decided. Louisville, Ky., and Atlantic City, N. J., are bidders for the meeting. Taxes on Urban Property have increased 201 per cent in 12 years and unless urgent governmental expenditures are checked, much good because it had laid light on the whole subject. Bridgeman made this statement during an address at a meeting here.

WORLD CHURCH CONFERENCE GETS DOCTRINAL REPORT

Both Nicene and Apostles' Creeds Accepted as Statements of the Christian Faith.

UNION OF VARIOUS DIVISIONS URGED

"Message of Church to World," Says Committee Is Call to Man to Return to God.

By the Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 12.—The world conference on faith and order has received from its sectional commissions the reports, intended as statements to the Christian world of its attitude on three important subjects. These are "The Nature of the Church," "The Church's Message to the World," and "The Church's Common Confession of Faith."

On only one subject, that of "The Church's Message to the World," was there time for discussion yesterday. Delegates rose in all parts of the crowded assembly with amendments, but they were not allowed to enter into time-wasting debate, owing to skilful handling by the chairman, the Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, Episcopal Bishop of Western New York.

The committee which handled "The Church's Message to the World" had condensed the results of its three days' discussion into a document of 600 words.

Gospel the Message of Church. "The message of the church to the world," reads the document, "is and must always remain the gospel of Jesus Christ. The gospel is the joyful message of eternal redemption, which is the gift of God to sinful man in Jesus Christ. It is more than a philosophical theory, more than a theological doctrine, more than a program for social and secular betterment."

"The gospel is a prophetic call to sinful man to turn to God. It offers the highest goal for the aspirations of youth, the rest that brings comfort to the toiler, the growing joy to the martyr. The gospel is a sure source of power for social regeneration. It provides a building designed to meet the needs of the world, and race hatreds, which now devastate society, into the enjoyment of national well-being and international good-will."

Invitation to Pagan World. "It is also a gracious invitation to the whole non-Christian world, to the joy of the living Lord. Sympathizing with the anguish of our generation, with its longings for intellectual, social, justice and spiritual inspiration, the church offers in the eternal gospel an answer to all the legitimate needs and providential aspirations of the modern world. Consequently, also, in the past, and the present, the gospel is the only and absolute way of salvation."

The report on "the nature of the church" was a document of 4000 words. It strives to define the Christian conception of "the church," in terms acceptable to the various elements represented.

"The church of the living God," begins this report, "is constituted by the own will, not by the will of man; the consent of the beliefs of men, whether as individuals or as societies."

Urges Church Union. The report affirms that as there is but one Christ, there can be but one church. It reviews the different views as to "the visible and the invisible character" of the one church, and goes on to say:

"But whatever may be our view on these divisions in the past, we are now agreed that they present obstacles to the accomplishment of the church's task, which is our duty, by God's help, to remove."

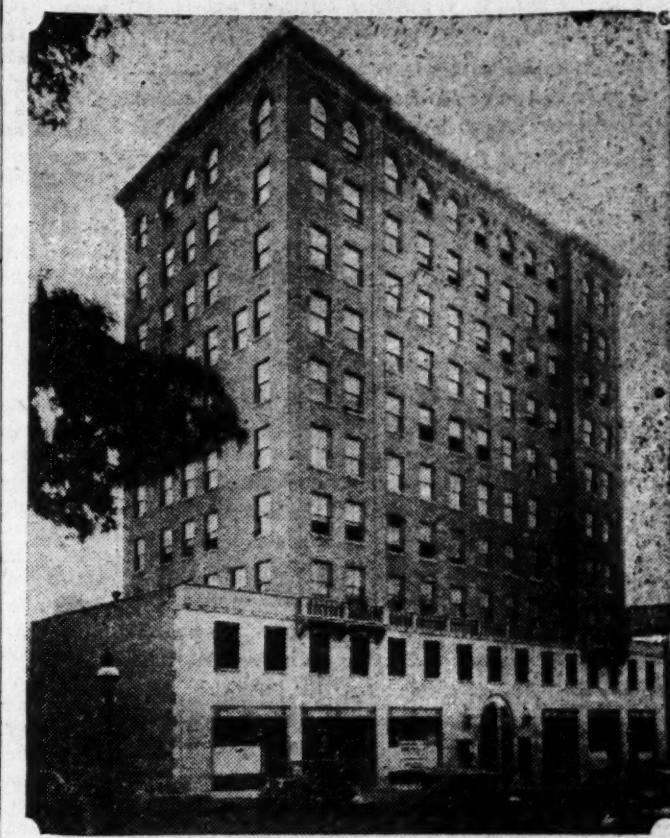

The report urges all Christians to become united "if the church is ever to accomplish its will for the salvation of the world."

Characteristics of Church. It concludes with the following definitions of certain marks by which the visible church can be known to men:

"First, the possession and acknowledgment of the Word of God as given in the holy scriptures and set forth in the word; second, the profession and proclamation of faith in Christ; third, the observance of the sacraments; fourth, a ministry for pastoral office, preaching of the word and administration of the sacraments; fifth, a fellowship in prayer, in worship, in all means of grace, in holiness of life and in service of man."

Confession of Faith. The report on "the church's common confession of faith" accepts both the Nicene and the apostles' creeds. It states its understanding, however, that the use of

Office Building Exclusively For Doctors Contains Hospital

The Beaumont, 3720 Washington Boulevard, Built, Designed and Owned Solely by Physicians.

The $1,000,000 Beaumont Medical Building, completed this summer at 3720 Washington boulevard, is an enterprise of, by and for physicians, surgeons and specialists. It was 75 per cent leased before the first foundation stone was set, sold its bonds in less than a day and within 17 years about 50 doctor-investor-tenants will hold unincumbered title to the property.

For years one or two physicians have had the idea of erecting such a building. In the summer of 1925 seven of them got together and talked it over. They decided they needed a building designed to meet the specifications of physicians, with parking space to take care of doctors' and patients' automobiles in the congested area, a hospital for minor surgery, and freedom from the noise of Grand boulevard with, however, proximity to that center of the city.

They talked of a three-story building, but as they communicated their idea to other doctors, the demand grew. They planned a six-story structure, then eight, and finally erected a ten-story building with provision for a 15 or 20-story addition.

Leased Before It Was Begun. Many of them are specialists, so they sought the aid of specialists in business—which probably accounts largely for the evident financial soundness of the venture. The lot 240 feet deep from a 140-foot front on Washington boulevard, allowed ample parking space. They gave their ideas for the building to a specialist in architecture, and scrutinized and re-scrutinized the plans as he drew them up. The result as a whole was what they wanted. Then, to top it off, each doctor laid out his own office to suit his individual taste and exigencies.

A little more than a year ago they called a "mass meeting" in the University Club. Doctors were asked to subscribe to stock in any amount from $1000 up. But not a spadeful of earth was turned until 75 per cent of the space had been taken on 5 and 10-year leases, for, as one explained, "building is not our line, and we mean to be safe."

Quite naturally, the physicians selected for the name of the building that of the most famous St. Louis physician, Dr. William Beaumont. The new Beaumont High School also was named for him. One hundred and five years ago Dr. Beaumont made studies of the functions of the human stomach which have never been repeated and have been accepted as scientific truth from the day of their first publication.

The structure, with a row of neat shops on the first floor, is attractive, substantial and decidedly up-to-the-minute. The elevators, for example, are of a new type with safety devices not found on any others in St. Louis. Among the particular equipment for a medical building is apparatus for precipitating all the running water in the building, so that every office has soft water.

25-Bed Hospital. A 25-bed hospital, with its own diet kitchens and complete modern equipment, occupies the whole second floor. There are 11 single rooms, with three four-bed wards and one double room. Four operating rooms include two of special design for nose and throat operations.

Although the hospital is open to any reputable physician, it is intended as a convenience for physicians in the building. Its chief uses are in tonsil and other minor operations and for special diagnostic study, where a doctor may desire to observe a patient for two or three days. The hospital is held by a separate corporation, of pre-war date, and special membership in the building corporation.

Applicants for space or membership in the building company were examined by a committee. Attention was paid to professional standing and to obtaining men from different universities in an effort to avoid cliques.

Officers of the Beaumont Medical Building Co. are: Dr. Edwin C. Ernst, president; Dr. M. F. Engman, vice president; Dr. Fred J. Tausig, treasurer; and Dr. Ellis Fischel, secretary. Directors are the officers and Drs. J. S. Kimbrough, W. H. Mook and Albert E. Tausig.

officially represented, the priests have been admitted to the open sessions of the conference. They also have access to the minutes and reports of the conference. Both have admitted that they would report to the Vatican. As they speak several languages, the priests were able to follow the proceedings without interpreters.

They are the Rev. Max Metzger of Graz, Austria, and the Rev. Herman Hoffman of Breslau, Germany.

The report recognizes that "the Holy Spirit, in leading the church into all truth, may enable it, while firmly adhering to witness of these creeds—our common heritage from the ancient church—to express the truths of revelation in additional forms, according to the needs of future ages."

In conclusion the reports record "our solemn and unanimous testimony that no external and written standards can take the place of that inward and personal experience of union with the living Christ, which is the only evidence of spiritual vitality, and that the object of our faith is not any statement about Christ but the Lord Jesus Christ Himself."

Two Catholic Priests Attend. Two Roman Catholic priests are closely following the deliberations of the conference. Although the church is not Withdrawal From Foreign Office Follows Clash With Military Leader of Regime.

Executions Follow Establishment of Martial Law Due to Riot of Rickshaw Coolies.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Resignation of Eugene Chen as Foreign Minister of the Chinese Nationalist Regime at Hankow is reported in messages to British official quarters. The reason given is a conflict between Chen and Gen. Tang Sen-chi, who has established firm control over the Hankow armies.

It is reported that Chen is succeeded by Ku Ning-Tu, whose appointment, the messages say, appears to have been unpopular, as the whole staff of the Hankow foreign office has threatened to resign.

According to British sources, the exodus of Russians from Hankow continues. It is confirmed that General Galens, former military adviser to the Nationalists, is going to Russia.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12.—Excavations carried on at the plateau known as the Napoleonic Plain, between Tel Aviv and Petachikvah, have resulted in the discovery of the gate of the city wall and vessels of different periods, chiefly of Abraham's era.

The Napoleonic Mount was a military center during the World War and played an important part in the Egyptian campaign of Napoleon in 1799, deriving its name from that circumstance.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS Dispute Over Finances Causes Coalition to Fall.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Aug. 12.—The Cabinet resigned yesterday owing to the opposition of Minister of the Interior P. E. Tsalikis to financial measures advocated by Finance Minister Kafandaris.

Tsalikis is one of the three members of the Royalist Popular Party which entered the coalition cabinet under Premier Zaimis in December. He has had frequent disagreements with his colleagues, the most recent of these, which now has resulted in the downfall of the Cabinet, concerned the negotiations conducted by Kafandaris with the League of Nations for a Greek loan. Tsalikis objected to the conditions Kafandaris had accepted at Geneva.

The troops also captured 50 alleged leaders of the rebellion. The uprising has spread to the Tacabamba District and is said to involve about 50,000 Indians.

The rebels have seized farms and warehouses, looting and burning them. The railway at Potosi is threatened by the movement. The rebellion is declared to be of a Communist nature. A number of persons have been imprisoned as propagandists.

No Justification.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE police officer who used a Boy Scout to trap a storekeeper into selling a loaf of bread on Sunday cannot plead justification on account of near-sightedness. Neither can he be exonerated and commended for the performance of duty, as was the officer who shot the Boy Scout a few months ago, for there is no parallel between the two cases. Perhaps the Police Board can commend him for his astuteness in starting to break in Boy Scouts to do "stooling" for the Police Department.

IN the year 1921 a few of the bakers of this city solicited the Alderman of their district to pass ordinance number 31383 prohibiting the sale of bread, cakes and other bakery products after 9 a. m. on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday. The public is suffering, and the majority of the shopkeepers are against this bill.

Let every Alderman in the Chamber today investigate the condition for himself, and have the press take a hand in this matter, and the people will set action they desire.

WE like your paper. It has the feel of not being "owned." Nor is it smug and satisfied. The Spirit of Pulitzer seems to carry on. What possible service can a newspaper render if it is fearful about expressing what it believes to be justice and the right, whether for the under dog or the better fixed? Wealth can always rely upon ability of support both from the pulpit and the bench—everything falls for the mighty dollar. What we need and want is a fearless and always tireless and disinterested champion of right and justice.

OLIVE Boulevard Deathtrap. NOTHING has been done to make the crossing at Olive Boulevard and Partidge Avenue safe since a woman was killed and two other riders in an automobile injured several days ago. Partidge Avenue enters Olive Boulevard at a sharp angle, and a driver coming down the hill on Partidge cannot see automobiles approaching from the west on the boulevard until he reaches the corner. The rule of the road requires drivers to stop at the boulevard, but there are no signs, and the rule is not generally obeyed. The driver who caused the accident drove suddenly out of the side street, knocked an automobile over, causing the death and injuries, and sped away. What is needed is that the high land, bushes and weeds at this corner be leveled, so that drivers on the boulevard going east may be able to see vehicles approaching on the side street in time to avoid accident.

IT is commonly but erroneously believed by the people of St. Louis that the river transfer charge accruing to the Terminal Railroad Association is in addition to the through rate. If you will investigate the tariffs you will find the through rates on traffic originating beyond the hundred mile zone to East St. Louis are the same except in a few instances.

Since the great bulk of traffic to St. Louis originates beyond the hundred mile zone (excluding soft coal) the writer falls to see where the people of St. Louis will enjoy cheaper transportation through the building of the Southern approach or operation of freight trains over the Municipal Bridge.

The through rates mentioned provide for the cost of river transfer, and the West side line's switching charge through absorption by the line receiving the road haul. The rate on a car of lumber from Laurel, Miss., to East St. Louis is 23c per hundred. The same tariff names a rate of 23c per hundred on a car of lumber from Laurel, Miss., to St. Louis. The forwarding carrier absorbs the Terminal Railroad Association river transfer cost and also absorbs the Manufacturers' Railway switching cost if the car is so routed.

Taking the above into consideration together with the proposed charge (estimated) of $1.50 per car for use of the Municipal Bridge, will the St. Louis Star or the Manufacturers' Railway inform the people of St. Louis how the consignees will benefit? Can the Manufacturers' Railway reduce the through rate?

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce may petition the Interstate Commerce Commission for a reduction in rates and if it succeeds, of what benefit is the Southern approach and the operation of freight trains over the "Free Bridge"? The same question obtains in the transfer of port of coal and other classes of freight in the one hundred mile radius. The solution is lower rates made possible by economical operations, not wasteful duplication of Terminal Railroad Association service.

AN APPEAL TO MR. COOLIDGE.

Dear Mr. President: The Sacco-Vanzetti case has reached a point where, in our opinion, only the intercession of the President of the United States can save the country from dishonor in the eyes of the civilized world. Nothing is to be hoped for from the legal machinery of Massachusetts. It is too inflexible, and its personnel is too obdurate, for further review or recourse. It is, surely, a sufficient commentary upon the legal status in Massachusetts that these defendants are unable to secure a new trial notwithstanding the world-wide conviction that no modern theory of justice can exclude from them this right. They have at this time between themselves and the electric chair only the compassion of Gov. Fuller.

We appeal to you in the fair name of America. We appeal to you for all those who would not have their honor despoiled. We respectfully ask you to request of Gov. Fuller that he reprove Sacco and Vanzetti for the period of a year. We further request you to assure the Governor that if he will do this you will open the records of the Department of Justice and give justice itself the benefit of whatever those records show the relation of the Government to this case to have been. This phase of the case, Mr. President, is a scandal. It is in itself a black spot upon American honor. Sacco and Vanzetti are sentenced to die. There is not a civilized man or woman upon earth who wants to see them die if they are innocent. There is not a man or woman who would believe that the guarantees of our civilization are so feeble, are so insincere, that these condemned men are not to have the full benefit of any opportunity that may exist to support the grave doubt of their guilt. Yet the records of the Department of Justice—and the Department of Justice was one of the instigators of the raid in which they were taken—have from the outset been denied them. Why? If there is in them anything that can possibly save us from committing an injustice for which all civilization will condemn, and is already condemning us, what good purpose will we serve or whom do we protect by withholding them from the defense?

You, Mr. President, and you alone, can order these records exposed. You can give the assurance that within the period of a respite for one year the relations of the Government to this case can be fully gone into at whatever avail they may be to Sacco and Vanzetti, if any at all. You have, Mr. President, adequate precedents for intervention. You have the similar action taken by Mr. Wilson in the Mooney case, as well as those numerous instances in which a widespread fear that injustice was about to be done has turned to the President of the United States.

In making this request we feel that we are discharging a duty. There is everywhere, in and out of this country, in Europe, in Asia, in all the Americas, upon the very isles of the seas, an expectation that when put to the test the United States can be depended upon for justice. The Sacco-Vanzetti case is one of those singular historical incidents which are unaccountable except for the innate sense of justice which abides in the hearts of men all over the world. It is a cause celebre. It is a test by which America will be judged in all time to come. We love France for many things, not the least of which is that she could do justice to a Dreyfus. We despise all those who have been incapable of justice, from the judges of Socrates to those of Edith Cavell. The Sacco-Vanzetti case is for us full of peril. Because millions of men and women all over the earth are convinced that these men are about to be killed for their political beliefs, and will not be unconvinced of it until the American Government itself reassures them in the frankest and fullest way possible, we are likely to go down in history with those who burned Giordano Bruno and Immacolata Joan of Arc. Whatever chance we have to escape this damning indictment, and to be linked at last with all those who have been more passionate than just, more blind than seeing, remains only while these men are alive. When they are dead the case will be closed. The most shining proof of innocence could only find us helpless.

We believe, Mr. President, that you know these things and appreciate their gravity. It is not unknown to you that, like John Brown, Galileo, Dred Scott, and that great host of defendants in whose tears and in whose stories are written the true tale of human progress, Sacco and Vanzetti have passed out of the mere realm of law into the much greater domain of human psychology. Guilty or innocent, they have long ago assumed a political significance which cannot be ignored. We cannot afford to consign them to the mere mechanism of law. They must be related to what Sir William Harcourt defined as human policy and judgment. It is a tragic misfortune that the right of these defendants, now expired by time limitation, to appeal directly to the Federal courts was not exercised, with the consequence that the United States is to be judged by the limitations of justice in one of its 48 states. From that misfortune you, and you alone, can save us, for only you can set in motion the sole remaining process, by which the nation itself can determine the facts in this case. It is a case in which this great nation of 120,000,000 of people stands indicted by the world for the act of a mere segment of its population.

The United States must not stand in the eyes of the world as the symbol of injustice, and we believe you to be the last person who would wish her to do so. You are, at any rate, the only person who can save her from this evil judgment, and to you, therefore, we hopefully and respectfully address this appeal.

Why should Lowden be penalized while the Lowdens have been and continue to be held in honor and esteem? In the moralities of politics it is blessed to receive and fatal to give?

THE NEW FORD.

The new Ford swung gracefully into the first page yesterday. In its purring beauty there was never a trace of its chattering, homely forbear. The speedometer registered 65 miles an hour without so much as a bead of perspiration on its brow. In pickup and acceleration, it proudly announced, "I yield to only one wayfarer."

Mr. Ford and his cars are no strangers to the first page. So far as we know, no other manufacturer has received the advertising given without money or price to Ford and his products. With his billion dollars Henry Ford could not buy the space which the papers donate to him.

The explanation is simple. The Ford car has been something more than a commodity. It has been something of an institution. It has been the automobile of the multitude—literally the people's car. It put America on wheels. As such it has had a new value. The new Ford, soon to make its bow, is, from the standpoint of public expectation, an item of super-nova. If it makes good, if it carries on the ubiquitous tradition of its obsolete ancestor, it will write a new and reverberating chapter in motordom's history.

AS IT SHOULD BE.

Those who are always complaining that the war did not end as it should, and that the cause of peace was not materially advanced, should take notice of the fact that the movie versions of the antiwar play, "What Price Glory," are playing to crowded houses in Germany, France and Italy, as well as America, and that other countries are soon to witness it.

That this does not indicate the existence of a widespread disgust with war and its offspring is inconceivable. The evolution of the popular literature of the war, in fact, supports this conclusion. As long as the guns were roaring, censorship in force, and the propagandists busy keeping the war psychosis of the peoples at the proper pitch, the romantic treatment of the war was the only one known, and the Coningsby Dawsons and Arthur Guy Empeys had a free field.

But when the flags were furled, the propagandists once more forced to seek an honest means of livelihood, and freedom again a fact, the romantic conception of the conflict vanished almost over night, and realism had its fling. Barbusse in France and writers in other countries cried out against the unspeakable infamy and the undeniable uselessness of the thing, and sounded a call to the youth of the world to prevent its repetition. The flood of disillusioned writing which has been flowing ever since has completely abolished the war-time conception of the struggle, and some of this writing—"What Price Glory," for example—has been immensely popular.

Which is, we believe, as it should be, and proves that the war ended as a war should, in universal disappointment and disgust, and that the cause of peace is advanced thereby. Probably every war has produced these feelings in the public, but today we have ways of displaying them which were formerly unknown.

ANOTHER ONE MAN FIGHT.

Let all who care select as their favorite one man fight that of Achilles against the Trojans, or that of Horatius against the Tarquins, or that of Alexander against the Yankees. Being St. Louisans, we prefer our own product. Our favorite one-man fight is that of Edward Burke against the Cossacks who have made Brentwood a place to be loathed and avoided by motorists.

It was Mr. Burke who first challenged the fee system by which these deputies and their valiant leader, William Skow, the champion gunman of the Manchester road, had been profiting by their wholesale arrests. It was the same Mr. Burke who threatened to have these marauders arrested for carrying weapons in case they did not resign. It was Mr. Burke, again, who proved by the city ordinance that several appointments to the Town Board had not been made properly, and that the body would hence have to be reorganized. And it is he, once more, who has forced the authorities to agree to set up an electric stop-and-go sign at the intersection of the Manchester and the North and South roads, at which place the boulevard stop has been a trap for motorists.

So it seems that Mr. Burke is winning his fight, which was inevitable all along.

MR. LOWMAN'S TEMPERATE SPEECH.

Assistant Secretary Lowman, successor of Gen. Andrews as head of prohibition enforcement, spoke publicly in Philadelphia the other day for the first time since assuming the office. He spoke with restraint and discretion. He gave it as his judgment that prohibition has accomplished some good, but frankly acknowledged that there is "a wide difference of opinion as to the success or failure of this great adventure in Government policy." He was no less candid in asserting that the only sure foundation for temperance lies in education and the personal conviction of the individual.

Such a statement is in refreshing contrast to the rhapsodizing of Maj. Roy Haynes, to the stern, accusing belligerence of Mr. Wayne Wheeler, and to the pietistic smugness of many other spokesmen. It is also preferable to the swaggering, military cocksureness of his immediate predecessor's earliest communications.

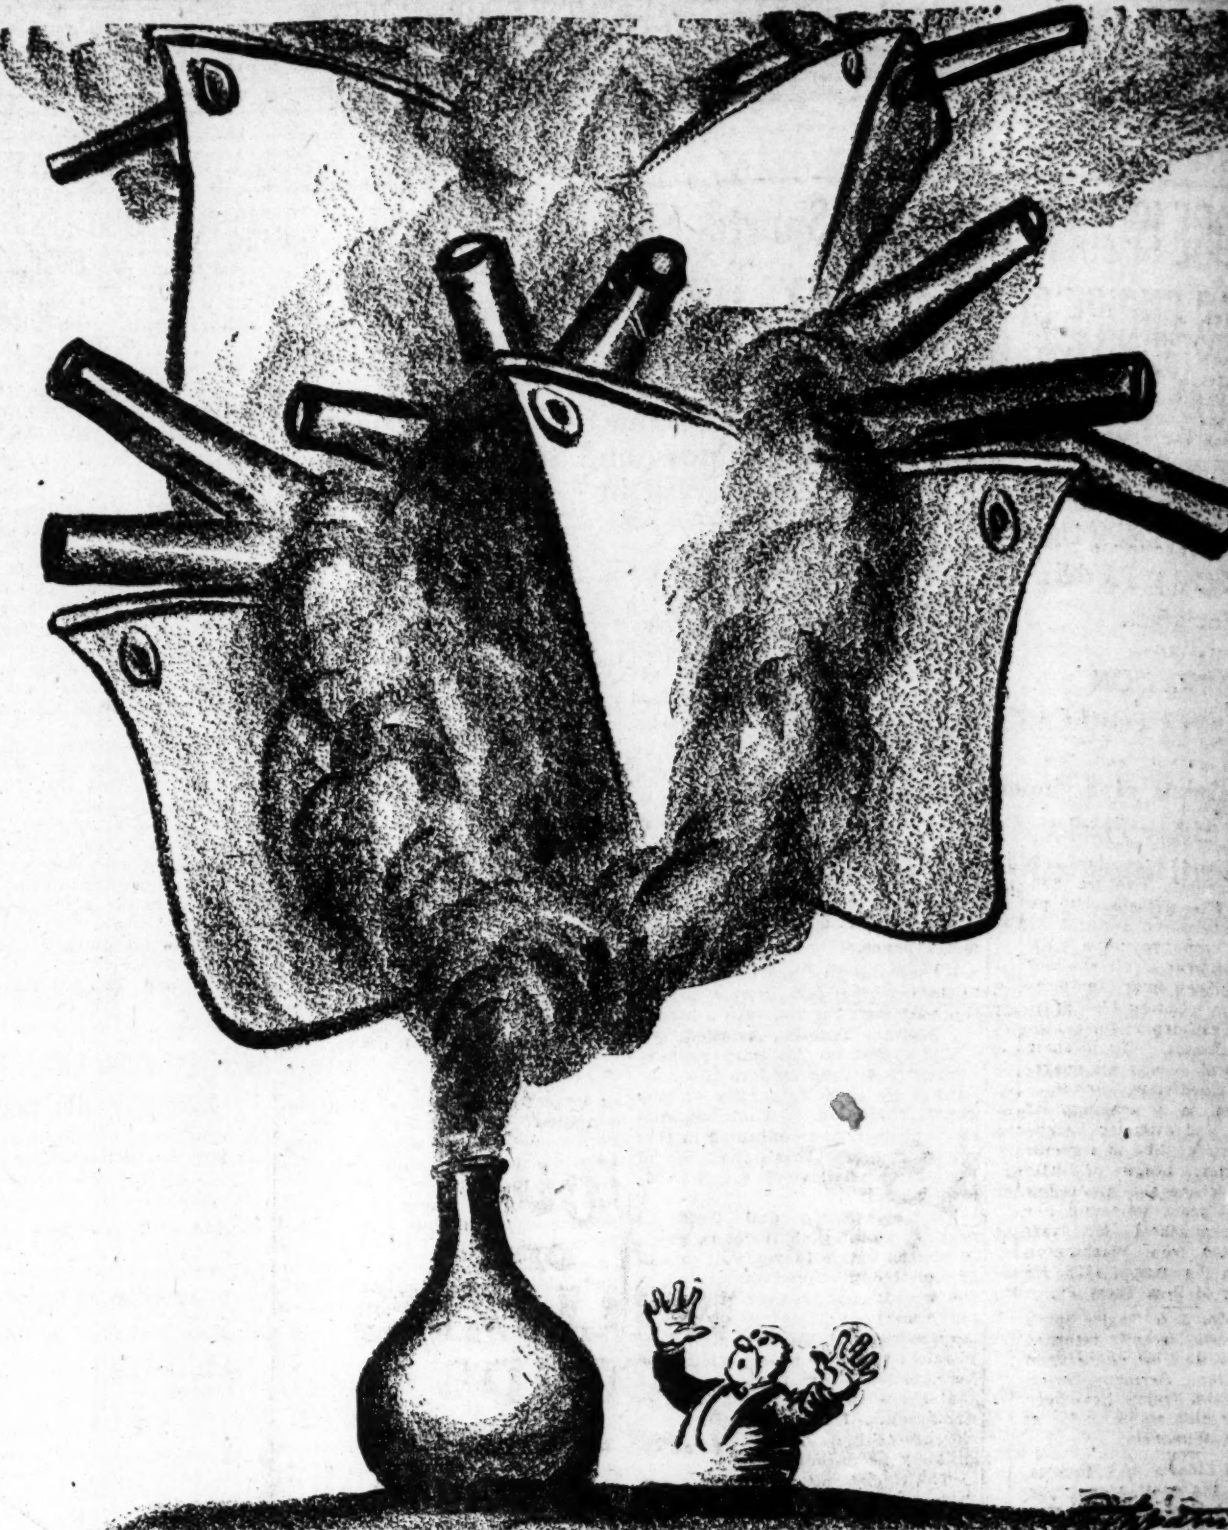

Certainly Mr. Lowman is temperate in speech. That in itself is an admirable virtue. As an official policy it is likely, we think, to help the cause of prohibition; it surely won't hurt it.

A SLUSH-FUND ECHO.

The Republican machine in Missouri, operated by Dr. Clements, ex-Gov. Hyde and Asa Butler of Kansas City, is kindly disposed to Vice President Dawes and testing party sentiment to determine whether and when it might be safe to make it a bandwagon movement. That is interesting. No less interesting, in a way, is the machine's reputed coolness to Mr. Lowden's candidacy because of the unhappy slush-fund recollection of eight years ago.

Yet with the exception of the "gold dust twins," the men who handled Mr. Lowden's money in Missouri never suffered party reprimand or rebuke, Federal or national. Quite to the contrary. They were elected to public office, chosen for high appointive places, one was given a diplomatic post, others have been continued in eminent party distinction as committeemen.

Why should Lowden be penalized while the Lowdens have been and continue to be held in honor and esteem? In the moralities of politics it is blessed to receive and fatal to give?

WHAT THE GENEVA CONFERENCE LET OUT OF THE BOTTLE.

SACCO-VANZETTI

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS THINK.

THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE case of Sacco-Vanzetti has been argued only on the question of their guilt or innocence, but there is another viewpoint of far greater importance that deserves the most serious consideration. Material progress has knit the nations in close communion; interdependence has become an unquestioned phrase. What our neighbors think and do daily becomes more vital, and any worthy statesmanship will never ignore foreign opinion. A great volume of sentiment distributed around the world believes the two condemned men innocent and denounces their execution as a crime against justice. Our usual American reaction to foreign criticism is to resent it and defiantly, if not spitefully, pursue our course unaltered. But such temper is childish and unworthy.

The growing voice of protest comes from the workers, the men whose feet bleed on the sharp stones as they bear on their shoulders the gilded coach of our prosperity. And as they wince at the cruelties of poverty, the most active minds among them feverishly search for relief in a reconstruction of the social order. They regard Sacco-Vanzetti as victims of a system that would keep their class in the voiceless slavery of Markham's "Man With the Hoe." A wise diplomacy would heed this astonishingly earnest and sincere protest that resounds round the earth. Our administration of the criminal law is notoriously inefficient. One of its severest critics is the present Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Perhaps 29 per cent of our murderers go unexecuted. Why not commute the sentence of these men to life imprisonment? The path of wisdom is the path of moderation. Our ears should always be open to the voices that come to us from the heart of humanity.

PASSES UNDERSTANDING.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE process of law has been abused and I might lighten the load that is on my chest. Why any two apparently obscure men should have so many people earnestly endeavoring to save them from the death chair passes all understanding. When there is some reasonable doubt as to their guilt, let Judge Thayer and Gov. Fuller remember that excellent precept, "Better to let a thousand guilty escape than to see one innocent man suffer."

EDWIN ASHLEY LAMKE.

SHORT SHRIFF FOR PETER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE followed the Sacco-Vanzetti case since the very beginning. I am personally acquainted with Elizabeth Glendower Evans, who has given her time and means to the defense of these two humble aliens. I have had experience with the cases of aliens during the war-time persecutions of the Department of Justice. I have a keen recollection of the tragic matter of Salsedo, killed by jumping or being thrown from his illegal place of imprisonment. I think I understand the psychology of those who honestly believe in the guilt of the two Italians.

For these and other reasons, your editorial in the Friday issue is a perfect expression of my own feelings and sorrow at Gov. Fuller's decision and explanation. European labor has chosen to consider the Sacco and Vanzetti case as a demonstration of the real feelings of the American Government toward it. Alien-protectionist-radical. Three common character-

FOR RIGHT THEY FIGHT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HE built well, bulged better, possibly than he ever dreamed. When Joseph Pulitzer founded the Post-Dispatch, he founded a living, breathing, pulsating force whose strength for good is constantly exerted. His followers know neither race nor creed, the highly nor the lowly. Right is right, and for right they fight.

Another fight for right is their noble stand in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. As the Post-Dispatch so effectively sets forth, they might be guilty; but as long as there is a smear of prejudice connected with their case, as the Committee indicates there is, they deserve another trial. Grant they are foreigners. The Mayflower could not carry all of our ancestors. Grant they are radicals. Can the fever of radicalism be cured by the stand the powers-that-be have taken in the Sacco-Vanzetti case?

If Joseph Pulitzer can look down from his high station he must feel proud of the way his life's soul work is being carried on.

EMMETT BALDWIN.

A WORD OF THANKS.

PROTESTS AGAINST EXECUTION.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AS a reader of your most valuable paper I hereby protest against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

R. F. GOELS.

THE COMMITTEE'S VERDICT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOU say in your editorial, "A Shameful Decision," that a jury should have again tried Sacco and Vanzetti. Can't you put the committee who examined this case in as good a category as the ordinary jury? I think the four men on that committee were of a higher type than are usually on juries. If the committee was unable to arrive at a fair verdict, then men of your caliber on a jury could not have done better.

LAWYER.

ABOVE PREJUDICES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

OF what character is this "lawless element" that "strive to intimidate the judges of our country" in the Sacco-Vanzetti case? I find them lawless only when one may term former Attorney-General Palmer's illegal radical raids as lawful. Again, of what nature is this charge of un-Americanism? Would that every man's patriotism stopped at the point where his duty to the laws of his country are fulfilled. But in courts of justice let us be members of a human race and lay aside prejudices, forgetting nationality, religion, politics, race and all other unnatural differences that tend to pervert the justice of our courts.

CONTINUING YESTERDAY'S DISCUSSION.

The men of might who aired us knew the danger and the strife
That are a human's sorry lot in warfare
They did not shrink from danger and they did not flinch from pain,
But wrought them well and cunningly with muscle and with brain;
That mighty race has disappeared, was puny, weak and frail,
The fibers of our being gone, soft cotton now prevail;
Now comes, alas, a lighted cane to prove our sorry plight—
The final test of manhood is the knight when you're right.

They dared the angry billow as they sped their creamy sail,
The thunder and the lightning and the fury of the gale;
They carved the rugged mountain and they blazed the lonely trail,
They braved the dangers of a world, but all to what avail?
We're quite content to sit and read the record that they left.
We pale and puny offspring, new of all the strength bereft;
Now comes a cane to enervate what few of us are fit—
The final test of manhood is the knight when you're lit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The body of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, widow of the founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York World, arrived here today on the Mauretania from Cherbourg. During the voyage one of the ship's hospitals was transformed into a chapel where fresh flowers were placed daily.

When the Mauretania reached New York, the body was placed in a casket and taken to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, another of Mrs. Pulitzer's sons; Mrs. William Moore, her daughter and Howard, the young son of Ralph Pulitzer. They went aboard the ship for a time and afterward Mrs. Pulitzer's body was conveyed to her late home, 7 East Seventy-third street. Funeral services will be read tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the chantry of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street. Interment will be private.

All activities of the Post-Dispatch, editorial and mechanical, will be suspended for three minutes, beginning at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, the hour corresponding to that of Mrs. Pulitzer's funeral services in New York.

RAIDERS INTERRUPT WORK ON 'AGING' DEVICE

Bootlegger, Who Dabbled in Chemistry, Arrested After Sales to Dry Agent.

Walter A. Ruth is no ordinary bootlegger. He has a saloon at 4281 Kennerly avenue, but he is a chemist at heart. Most of the time a bartender is in charge of the saloon and Ruth is experimenting in the basement of his St. Louis County home.

Prohibition agents recently have been calling incognito at Ruth's home and buying liquor in 8-gallon lots. Ruth told them he had been dabbling in chemistry since prohibition went into effect and had almost perfected an aging process whereby "5-year-old whisky could be distilled in five days."

Arrangements were made for Ruth to deliver 20 gallons at a West End address—the rooming house of an agent. Accompanied by his wife and another woman, Ruth drove to the alley there last night and was completing delivery when the agent disclosed his identity and other agents appeared from hiding places.

Ruth was locked up for the night, but Mrs. Ruth was permitted to accompany the agents to her county home at 7529 Clemens avenue. There the agents destroyed a 150-gallon still, 175 gallons of mash, 20 gallons of whisky and 150 pints of beer. The still, valued by Ruth at $1000, had an ingenious percolator device which redistilled the alcohol over and over again. The "aging" process was made more effective by the addition of chemicals and what appeared to be hayseed, also found in the house.

Mrs. Ruth was ordered to report at the Federal Building. The woman who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ruth last night was released when she explained she went in their car "for the ride."

14 LIFE SAVERS TO PATROL

MERAMEC RIVER ON SUNDAYS
Effort to Reduce Heavy Toll of Drownings Will Be Made by Volunteer Corps.

Fourteen members of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps serving as voluntary life guards will patrol the Meramec River on Sundays at bathing places most frequented by the thousands who flock to the river on week-ends. The patrol was organized last night at Red Cross headquarters in an effort to reduce the heavy annual toll of drownings in the river. Fred W. Pethoff, captain of the corps, will be in charge of the patrol.

The guards will be identified by Red Cross Life Saving Corps insignia and a Red Cross flag on their canoes. Temporary headquarters will be established at the "Take-It-Easy" Club, midway between Valley Park and Fern Glen. The patrol will supplement hundreds of warnings and hazard signs posted along the river by the Red Cross.

The patrol will be distributed as follows:
Meramec Highlands to Valley Park: Jack McDonald, Forest Willis, E. B. Kinney, F. R. Morie, Drake, S. Phillips, J. T. Gleick, O. E. Eisman.
Lincoln Beach to Schroeder Butte: H. G. Erbs, A. Schroeder, M. F. Hubbard.
Fern Glen to Valley Park: Carl Bauer, William Frahl, J. Monteith, A. G. Embowitz.

WALES' STRAW STIRS LONDON

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 12.—Fashionable
London has been shocked by photographs showing the Prince of Wales in Canada wearing a straw hat, for this hasn't been done in polite British circles.

Only school boys, meat packers straw hats, but since the Prince of Wales has donned one, Bond street wondering whether soft felts will make way for straws next summer.

Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley,
Calif., scored America's first victory in the Wightman Cup tennis tournament when she crushed
Joan Fry of England in 20 minutes, 6-2, 6-0.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory,
American champion, made it two sets for the cup defenders when she conquered the ace of the British team, Mrs. Kitty McKane
Widder, with surprising decisivness, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Wills easily outdrove her
English rival in a second set, winning exclusively from the baseline. Miss Fry made many marvelous "gets" but she lacked the American's steadiness and power when it came to the determining strokes.

The attractive young Englishwoman broke through her rivals service but lost her own three

DEFEAT PAULINO FROM HEAVY CHAMPIONSHIP FIELD

DELANEY GAINS VERDICT ON FOUL IN SEVEN ROUNDS

Spanish Woodchopper Disqualified by Referee After Being Warned Three Times in Dull Bout.

Rival Managers At Odds About Ending of Bout

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—PETE REILLY, manager of Jack Delaney, and Al Mayer, manager of Paulino Uzcudun, were at odds as a result of the outcome of last night's fight. Reilly exhibited a protective cup showing a dent in it charging Paulino hit Delaney low blows. They made the following statements:

Reilly: "Paulino fouled Jack four times. He was doing it all along because Delaney was cutting him to ribbons. He knew he was being beaten so he took the easiest way out."

Mayer: "I think the cup was marked before Delaney even entered the ring. Paulino was cut but he was unhurt. He was good for another hour and was getting in body blows that hurt. Delaney did not relish it so he claimed the foul."

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The Spanish menace to American heavyweight supremacy had drifted over the tistic horizon today, temperately at least, on the wings of 43 unsatisfactory and disputed a battle as the Dempsey-Sharkey fight.

Founded, but not greatly damaged by every cut known to distillants, the title threat of Paulino Uzcudun, woodchopper of the Pyrenees, faded when Jack Delaney's right hand was lifted in victory on a foul, after one minute and 57 seconds of fighting in the seventh of a 15-round fight at the Yankee Stadium last night.

Thrice warned by the referee for low punching, Paulino was waved to his corner after a fourth left hook landed below the belt. The result stunned the spectators, who had seen nothing untoward in the milling, and left in its wake a controversy of "foul or no foul," that rivaled the sudden termination of the battle between Dempsey and Sharkey in the same ring and in the same round only three weeks ago.

Paulino Never Stops.

While the fracas lasted there was no question of supremacy. Returning to heavyweight ranks six months after his defeat by Jimmy Maloney, Delaney spared Paulino at will, cut his face and bruised his nose until his features were a mask of blood. But hard and straight as the punches flew, Paulino refused to go down or hurt. He never once halted a steady although futile advance.

Welching 16 pounds less than the squat Spaniard, Delaney, at 177½, was little over the weight limit of the light heavyweight division, where he ruled as champion before relinquishing the title to cast his lot among the heavyweights.

There was little to thrill the spectators in the six rounds of milling preceding the unsatisfactory ending. It was a case of Delaney, artistic boxer and master of ring arts, matching all his skill against a powerful but clumsy opponent, who had little but a sweeping left hook and elbow defense in his fistic repertoire.

Spaniard Well Damaged.

Occasionally Paulino caught the full, bronzed woodman in a clinch or surprised him with a sweeping random shot to the head. At close range the Spaniard drove stiff shots into Delaney's body, but the toll he paid was heavy in ripping jolts, jabs and uppercuts to the head and ribs. At the close, Paulino's mouth, nose and left eye were bleeding freely.

Half way through the final session, Referee Crowley pulled the Spaniard back to warn him that his fists were sinking below the waistline. There followed a clinch at the ropes, with the gloves of both fighters flying to the body, and the sudden waving of Paulino to his corner, as much mystified as the spectators.

Hats flew into the ring as thousands of spectators gathered about the enclosure and cheered the approval of the ending. As Paulino bounced about in a series of acrobatic stunts on the canvas, Pete Reilly, manager of the Bridgeport warrior, dashed about the inclosure, waving a metal cup, groin protector, that showed several dents. Ring-side opinion differed, but a majority of nonpartisans agree that Paulino's blows, even low, did not do enough damage to merit disqualification. Sitting in his corner, Delaney displayed no sign of injury and made no effort to appear hurt.

Now had the picturesque French-Canadian complained of any low blows in actual battle. The referee explained that Paulino had been warned three times and that there was nothing to do but end the battle when the Spaniard again transgressed.
